HUGE TIDAL WAVE HITS FRANCE

Offer For Muscle Shoal Power Rights

WASHINGTON, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—A new offer for the electric power to be generated at Muscle Shoals, promising a return of $100,000,000 to the government over a period of fifty years, was tendered today by the nine principal associated power companies of the southern states.

The offer does not include the nitrate plants, which would be left free for the manufacture of fertilizer by Henry Ford or any one else who would come to terms with congress; and specifically reserves a certain part of the power to be developed at the Wilson Dam next year for the manufacture of fertilizers under such terms as the government might prescribe.

Representative Hull of the House Military Committee, really developed the new proposal by his recent request to the Federal Power Commission to invite offers for the hydro-electric energy to be developed at Wilson Dam in 1925.

After the submission of the offer today, Mr. Hull in a statement declared the Ford offer "utterly inadequate and of doubtful possible benefit," by comparison. He said he would introduce an appropriate resolution in the house.

That part of the offer which provides for the manufacture of fertilizer, a point which has been the storm center in all the negotiations and discussions for the disposal of Muscle Shoals to

Coast, Towns, Shipping Hurt

SAINT NAZARE, FRANCE, January 9—(By United Press)—A terrific tidal wave which rolled in from the sea between Brest and Baordeaux today tore stone parapets off the sea wall and hurled them on the sea front boulevard 200 yards. Boats were thrown from the sea onto the land and living quarters and other structures inundated at many points. No casualties have been reported.

SABLES, D'OLLONE, FRANCE, January 9—(By United Press)—A tidal wave which swept in over considerable section of the coast wrenched a number of ships from their anchorage and debris of many shattered vessels is scattered along the coast.

L'ORIENT, FRANCE, January 9—(By United Press)—The naval station wireless here picked up distress calls from the steamers Coithland and Tassmania, crippled by a tidal wave.

Wireless messages picked up here indicated ships are suffering great distress all along the coast and as far north as the English Channel.

The boiling waters overwhelmed a steamer of the Bordeaux Ocean Company which was in port. Several fishing boats also were sunk. Rouyan is at the mouth of the Grand Gironde.

Ohio Democrats Open 1924 Campaign; Cox Scores Republican Foreign And Domestic Policy

(Editor's Note:—The text of Ex-Governor Cox's address will be found on Page 7)

COLUMBUS, O., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, and Democratic standard bearer in the 1920 presidential campaign, maintains the same position on the League of Nations as he did almost four years ago when he made it the keynote of his campaign for election as chief executive of the nation.

He so informed Ohio Democrats in unequivocal terms here last night at a Jackson Day dinner at which what were regarded as opening blasts of Democracy's 1924 campaign in Ohio, were sounded. Carrying the League of Nations theme throughout his address, he indicated that he believed that the participation of the United States in foreign affairs, is still as much a major issue as when he stumped the country in 1920. He gave no intimation, however, as to what his intentions might be in regard to the coming presidential campaign.

Many of the exhibitors demanded withdrawal of the revue, but a compromise was effected involving not only costume, but curtailment of the length of the act.

DONAHEY CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—Gov. A. V. Donahey last night officially became a candidate for re-election to the office which he has held for exactly one year.

In the course of a speech delivered at the annual Jackson Day dinner of Franklin county Democrats, Donahey announced his candidacy for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket, and said in effect that he expected to be returned to office.

His brief announcement was made in these words:

"One year ago today the mantle of Democracy, worn by Governors Campbell, Pattison, Harmon and Cox, was thrown across my shoulders, and I expect to return it to the Democratic party of Ohio three years from today, clean and undefiled."

While it has been regarded as certain that the chief executive would seek a second term, last night was his first public statement in regard to his candidacy. He has the field to himself, no other Democratic candidate having yet made a definite announcement.

FIGHT OVER CHAIRMAN CONTINUES IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—With the senate still trying to find a way out of the tangle over the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee, the house today devoted its entire session to eulogizing the late Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, for many years Democratic leader in the chamber. Farm legislation, meanwhile, held considerable attention with the Agricultural Committees of both the senate and house, continuing their study of the Norris-Sinclair bill, providing for creation of a $100,000,000 corporation to purchase American farm products and sell them at home and abroad.

Although the senate did not take any ballots on the interstate commerce chairmanship, the trend of efforts on the part of some members to bring about a solution of the deadlock was indicated in an exchange between Senators Curtis, of Kansas, Republican "whip," and Dill, Democrat, Washington. Senator Curtis suggested that if he were a member of the committee he "would call a majority together and get started without a chairman," and Senator Dill replied that "something like that will happen if the chairmanship fight is not ended."

"The house tomorrow will take up the first of the annual supply measures to come before it—the Interior Department appropriation bill.

MAY CONTEST THE CASE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—William Corrigan, unseated by city council, after a recount which was said to have given a majority to Webster Lentz, Klan cyclops, was expected to issue a statement today as to whether he will carry the contest to the courts. The East Side Improvement Club last night passed a resolution upholding Corrigan and calling for grand jury investigation of alleged broken seals and lost ballots.

Co-eds Bar Drinking Men At Dances

ITHACA, N. Y., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Coeds at Cornell University refuse to dance with men who have even a faint smell of liquor.

Lieutenant Theodore H. Tweston, the university proctor, in a statement today, said: "I believe there is less drinking at Cornell than in any other large university in the country. This, I think, is due largely to the activities of the girls, who have refused to dance with a man who has even a faint smell of liquor about him. No man can drink at Cornell and be in good standing socially."

Girls have banded together and refused to permit drinking at any social function and have boycotted men from their parties who have infringed on this rule.

2 Killed, 50 Hurt As Trains Meet Head-On

HOUSTON, TEXAS, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The engineer and fireman of one train were killed and more than fifty passengers injured, three probably fatally, when two Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway passenger trains met head-on at Hillendahl, eight miles from here, last night. The wreck, one of the most serious in South Texas in many years, is thought to have resulted from misinterpretation of orders. Responsibility has not been placed.

Train No. 26, north bound for St. Louis, had left a blind siding at Hillendahl, about five minutes before the crash, and was picking up speed for the run to the next station when train No. 23, south bound from St. Louis, Dallas and Fort Worth, loomed in view. The impact was heard for a mile.

Baggage cars, telescoped by the crash, were piled in confusion, but passenger coaches and sleeping cars kept the tracks. The front end of the forward coach of the south bound train was split open and several negro passengers were injured. Several passengers and trainmen also were scalded by live steam from the engines.

Probe Moral Conditions At University Of Michigan

ANN ARBOR, MICH., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—A searching investigation into alleged misconduct on the part of certain University of Michigan students is now under way with Ralph A. Bursley, dean of students directing. The reported withdrawal from school of three youths and a girl is said to have precipitated Dean Bursley's action, although university authorities refuse to comment at all on the affair.

The four students, persistent campus reports say, were requested by the faculty not to return after the Christmas holidays. The situation was handled by President Marion Leroy Burton, Dean John R. Effinger of the literary college, and Dean Henry M. Bates of the law school, instead of by the discipline committee as is usual in such cases. President Burton is in the east on a speaking tour. Deans Bates and Effinger refuse to confirm or deny the campus rumors.

Dean Bursley's investigation is distinct from the case in which President Burton is said to have taken personal action, and includes a general inquiry into moral conditions at the school.

Two Thirds Rule Brings Fight For Democrats

(BY DAVID LAWRENCE)
(Copyright, 1924)

WASHINGTON, January 9.—Presidential politics inside the Democratic party has unexpectedly reached a climax which may make the national convention this year sensational in history.

Although the managers of the boom for William Gibbs McAdoo are denying it to be their intention to propose an abrogation of two thirds rule whereby Presidential candidates are nominated in the Democratic convention, the workers in various sites and pledging national committeemen and committeewomen to vote for such a change at the meeting of the Democratic National Committee to be held here next week.

Unless the opposition to the McAdoo candidacy can rally its forces within the next few days, the resolution will be offered and passed. Enough pledges seem to have been secured to adopt the resolution, but the margin is close and may be overturned. If the McAdoo forces do not find themselves with enough votes they will not propose the resolution for to be defeated on such an issue in the Democratic National Committee would be a bad blow to the prestige of the boom itself.

McAdoo Trying to Override Bloc

The strategy of the McAdoo group is prompted by the tactics of their opponents who have been sitting quietly for the last few months regarding the McAdoo boom with indifference because of a conviction that a one third bloc of delegates could prevent the nomination

Denizens Of Underworld Flee As Butler Stages Cleanup In Philly

PHILADELPHIA, PA., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—An exodus of gamblers, bootleggers and other notorious characters of Philadelphia's underworld, was reported in full swing today as a result of Brigadier General Butler's orders to the police to clean up the city within forty-eight hours after he had been sworn in by Mayor Kendrick as director of the Department of Public Safety.

Raids conducted by the police yesterday afternoon and last night revealed that many disorderly houses had already closed their places and the proprietors left the city. Cider saloons, which had prominently displayed the "never closed" sign, were shrouded in darkness early today, and not a drink was to be had in any of the establishments that generally had been blamed for flooding the city with poisonous liquor.

Apparently well pleased with the initial results of his order, General Butler visited police stations in the Tenderloin District and congratulated the

Small Hats and Simplicity In Suits For Spring

NEW YORK, January 9.—(By the United Press)—Becoming things have a way of remaining in fashion long after the hour has struck for them to pass on.

Witness the choice. The little headfitting hats that smart women have been wearing since early Fall are still the hats most in favor.

The only variation in sight for spring is a smaller cloche than ever—a cloche with the rim knocked off, so to speak, or disguised with a small rolling brim.

Small turbans, with dangling metal trimmings, and the tricorn hat—which inevitably followed the trend toward directoire frocks—are making a strong bid to transplant the cloche, however.

For all that fashion has been pointing back to the directoire, what with gored flounces and drapes and one thing and another, women just will not return to fussy, flouncy styles.

Paris' ruling for 1924 is severe simplicity. American women have already taken it up.

Simple, three-piece tailored suits made of summer fabrics, as plainly cut as if for boarding school miss or a business girl, are being worn now at all the resorts in the South.

Long, brilliant scarfs brighten the costume.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—The plea for Philippine independence was renewed by the Philippine mission today in a memorial to congress making severe criticism of the administration of Governor General Leonard Wood.

Unshaken In His Story

CANTON, O., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Louis E. Griffith, manufacturer and clubman, this morning, after twenty-four hours of continuous questioning by police, remained unshaken in his story that he had no knowledge of any circumstances in connection with the death of pretty Ruth Hunter, 18, whose body was found on a road near here six days ago. Griffith was arrested yesterday morning by police on a charge of suspicion for questioning in connection with the investigation of the girl's death, authorities announced at the time.

Griffith late last night drove detectives about the city in his automobile and to a vault in a cemetery where, with the officers, he viewed the body of Miss Hunt.

Police Chief Leugel said the examination of Griffith, who previously had furnished an alibi, accounting for his actions on the night Miss Hunter died, would continue today.

Committee Grateful To C. Of C.

Sentiment, nation wide, rapidly forming in favor of co-ordinating social activities under one central plan such as has been initiated here in Portsmouth, which established the Community Chest activity, advances us one more step forward.

Under the auspices of those that give of their time to scrutinize the work of the various Bureaus of the city, which now minister to the needs of those worthy, there will be a vastly wider distribution of funds through these Bureaus economically controlled, the results of which must be self-evident, and therefore the plan will grow from the sustenance coming out of the charitably inclined citizens of our Community.

The Committee feels grateful to the Chamber of Commerce, the officers which have stepped right out in the open and given of their room, equipment and every facility to carry on this very necessary work in our city, without cost of administration to the various Bureaus. A service that the committee appreciates, and in behalf of our community, we bespeak for them our very heartiest reciprocal co-operation that both the Budget Committee and the Chamber, may grow in favor, through the accomplishment of each. THE COMMUNITY CHEST COM. W. W. Anderson, Edw. T. Read and Adam Frick.

O'Ryan Called In To Discuss His Report

WASHINGTON, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—John F. O'Ryan of New York, general counsel for the Veterans' Committee, was called into conference today by that committee to consider his report on the bureau investigation which already has become public.

Members of the committee do not agree with all of the recommendations and conclusions and some changes in the report probably will be made before it is printed as a part of the record of the inquiry. Some of the language employed in reference to some of the witnesses also is regarded by the committee as too strong.

After considering the O'Ryan report, the committee will proceed with the drafting of its own report to the senate, which Chairman Reed stated yesterday on the floor would be submitted within ten days.

Fewer, more efficient and better paid medical men is one of the recommendations. Also it is proposed that the country should be divided into four territorial departments, each headed by a medical director, vested with authority to correct local abuses and to administer discipline.

Reduction in waste hospitals and vocational training, and the resolving of doubts in favor of claimants are other recommendations made by the general council.

Kiwanians Enjoy Musical Program, Splendid Talks At Weekly Meeting

One of the happiest meetings in the history of the Portsmouth Kiwanis club was the one held Wednesday noon at the Mary Louise. The program committee, after having racked their brains and then tossed up their hands in disappointment, were all smiles when the meeting was concluded, for every number was a treat and every Kiwanian showered congratulations upon the heads of the entertainment committee, who, regardless of their office, had simply played in luck but who accepted the applause just the same.

The splendid entertainment provided by Brown's Saxophone Sextette, playing an engagement at the Columbia theatre. Through the solicitations of Manager Tynes, of the Columbia, the sextette rendered several selections. Better music was never heard and certainly the artists were given a most royal welcome.

The members were glad of the opportunity to welcome back home one of their former members, W. B. Anderson, now a member of the Tucson, Ariz., Kiwanis club. Mr. Anderson responded to his name with a happy little talk and stated that the Tucson club's chief bid for fame was the fact Harold Bell Wright was a member. S. O. Titus, formerly connected with the Selby Shoe Company was introduced by George D. Selby, whose guest he was. Mr. Titus is now a prosperous New England dairyman. He admitted that while being a dairyman was a by-product, he was intensely interested in farming. He stated that the real kick of the farmer was the spread of prices between the farmer and the consumer. Of every dollar the consumer spends for food, the farmer, who produced the same received but 45 cents. Mr. Titus was warmly received, for he has a host of friends in this community.

A report was received showing that only 351 children in the public schools would be able to pay for their daily portion of milk. The local Kiwanians will provide the milk for these children during the balance of the school year. The cost will be about $900.00.

On next Wednesday, Secretary of Building & Loan Associations, of Columbus, Mr. DeVinne, will make an address before the club. Member William Hazelbeck states Mr. DeVinne is an able speaker and will have a message worth while.

Whiskey Tossed Over Bridge Lands On Ice, Recovered; Arrests Are Made

Four men, Charles Justice, Albert Fulk, Howard Bazler and Truman Phillips nabbed by the officers last night for alleged violation of the dry laws, pleaded not guilty when brought before judge Sprague in Municipal court Wednesday and the defendants were ordered held under bond pending hearing Friday.

Justice and Fulk were taken into custody when Chief Rome Arthur and state inspectors visited the Justice home on Twelfth street, near Gay, and claim they uncovered a quantity of "hootch" in a search of the premises. The liquor was seized and is held as evidence. Mrs. Elfie Justice, wife of one of the defendants, was also placed under arrest because, it is claimed she attempted to obstruct officers in the performance of their duties and in court today she pleaded not guilty to a charge of interfering with the dry sleuths. Her trial was also fixed for Friday and she will be defended by Attorneys Miller and Searl.

Bazler and Phillips were arrested near Lucasville by State Agents Hutchinson and Farmer on charges of transporting and possession of liquor, after, it is claimed, the defendants hurled a box filled with bottles containing moonshine liquor, over the side of the Lucasville bridge. Some of the broken bottles lodged on the thin ice on the Scioto river and they were recovered by the officers in a novel manner when they tied a rope around a young man named Frank Salyers and hoisted him over the side of the bridge to salvage what liquor he could to be used as evidence. Salyers was rewarded with a five dollar bill for his effort.

An Essex touring car belonging to the two men was confiscated. Bazler and Phillips will be defended by Attorney A. C. Woodrow.

Favor Permanent Improvement Of The Portsmouth-Oak Hill Road

At a meeting of the Good Roads comittee of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon the committee went on record as favoring the early and permanent improvement of the Portsmouth-Oak Hill road from Waits Station to the Scioto county line, distance of 11½ miles. The Committee decided that the improvement of this road would mean more to Portsmouth than the improvement of any other road within this next year. The contracts are already let for the permanent improvement of the Portsmouth-Jackson road from Portsmouth to Minford.

The Oak Hill pike was favored over the continuation of the paving of the Ohio river road from Pond Run west to the Scioto county line. The state highway department will be asked to give this stretch of six miles the same attention as the roads in Adams and Brown counties. The committee felt that additional permanent improvement on the Ohio river road could be held up until counties on the west showed some inclination to improve their part of the road permanently.

A report was read from County Engineer Charles Noel which showed Scioto county has 64.5 miles of brick and concrete roadways representing an expenditure of $2,119,000. Of this amount $297,000 was Federal aid, $495,000 state aid and $1,327,000 county fund.

The improved Inter-County Highways in Scioto county are divided as follows. 10,526 miles on I. C. H. No. 7 Ohio river pike east; 10,424 miles on I. C. H. No. 7. Ohio river pike west; 15.38 miles on I. C. H. No. 5, miles on I. C. H. No. 403, Portsmouth-Minford-Jackson pike; 2, 778 miles on I. C. H. No. 402, Portsmouth-Oak Hill; and 0.375 miles on I. C. H., 406 Portsmouth-Lucasville road (West Side).

Members Mark W. Selby, W. A. Pepper, John C. Bauer and George E. Koch were present and voted to lend citizens who are working for a hard surfaced road from Greenupwest and to the ne wroad association formed at Winchester.

Liquor Found; Bell Escapes

One arrest was made and considerable liquor was found it is alleged in two raids made by Marshal Ollie Cassity and Constable Spriggs of New Boston Wednesday. At the John Bell place, Lakeside, 40 empty half pints, 25 full half pints and three jugs were found but while the officers were upstairs conducting the search Bell departed from his place of business and escaped, the officers say.

The other place raided was the home of Reed McGuire, 3167 Stanton avenue. Thirty empty half pints, several jugs and a half gallon of moonshine in a glass jug were found. McGuire was fined $100 and costs when taken before Mayor Bierley on a possession charge to which he pleaded guilty.

Shoplifter Taken To Reformatory

Mrs. Myrtle Gibbs, 1228 Front street, who was yesterday sentenced to the Ohio Reformatory for Women by Judge Thomas under her plea of guilty to one of 17 separate indictments returned against her by a Scioto county grand jury charging her with larceny and receiving stolen goods, was taken to the Marysville prison Wednesday by Miss Emma Hubert, assistant probation officer.

The indictements against Mrs. Gibbs grew out of an investigation by the police last September which resulted in the recovery of several hundred dollars worth of merchandise stolen from local stores through shoplifting operations.

In a statement to the court Mrs. Gibbs' absolved her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Runner, from all responsibility and blame in connection with the theft of over $750 worth of stolen merchandise recovered by the officers at the Front street address and identified by local merchants as having been taken from their establishments through shoplifting operations conducted on a wholesale scale.

In view of Mrs. Gibbs' admission, the indictments against Mrs. Runner were continued off the docket by Judge Thomas on motion of Prosecutor Skelton.

Attorney H. L. Small represented Mrs. Gibbs and Judge A. Z. Blair appeared for Mrs. Runner.

Board Forced To Abandon Temporary School

Friday will be the last day of the temporary school conducted in the United Brethren church building in North Moreland addition by the Portsmouth Board of Education. The problem the Board has been facing for some time, just what to do to provide school facilities for North Moreland pupils, was decided this afternoon when a letter from the State Bureau of Workshops and Buildings, Department of Industrial Relations, Columbus, was received ordering the abandonment of the church for school purposes. The letter disclosed the fact that an inspector from the Bureau had paid the temporary school a visit on the thirteenth of December. His report to the head of the department brought the following letter to the Board of Education:

"This building has insufficient light, no play grounds, and no adjacent ground on which to erect toilets. The church trustees will not permit the removal of benches and chairs so as to provide room for desks and seats. Therefore the use of this building for temporary school purposes is prohibited, and the same shall be discontinued at once."

On receipt of the letter Clerk William Hazelbeck called the Board members and a special meeting was held this afternoon, the only course of action left open for them being to abide by the order of the state department. The only other possible plan for providing the North Moreland pupils with school facilities is to transport them to Garfield school. This plan will be put into operation next Monday. It would require at least two months to erect a temporary building and such a step would mean a big expenditure, was the opinion of every member who agreed that the transportation plan was the only thing left to do until a permanent building is erected in North Moreland. The Board members hope that the parents of North Moreland pupils who have heretofore objected to the transportation plan, will consider the position in which the Board is placed with the forced closing of the temporary school and will send their children to Garfield school along with others who have always been willing to attend that school until the permanent school is erected. The new building for North Moreland will be the first work of the new Board.

OVER 200 OHIO SCHO OLS SHORT OF FUNDS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—More than 200 Ohio schools have notified the state department of education that they will have insufficient funds to operate their schools for the eight months period required by law, and many additional districts are doubtful if their finances will last, Vernon M. Riegel, director of education, announced today.

A number of these districts are eligible for state aid—having a tax duplicate of less than $4,000 for each child of school age—and this may tide them over, but a large number of others cannot receive help from the state. Many of the districts receiving state aid will fall short even with the additional state funds, it is declared.

Partial List

Among cities and villages listed by the director as faced with financial difficulties and which will not have the advantage of state aid are: Bellaire, Cambridge, Coshocton, Defiance, Gallion, Painesville, Springfield, Uhrichsville, Crestline, Franklin, Wadsworth, and New Boston.

Among those in which the shortage seems likely and which must operate without the aid of the state funds are: Alliance, Bellefontaine, East Palestine, Mansfield, Martins Ferry, Xenia, Lisbon and Newcomerstown.

A report compiled by Riegel shows that 221 districts voted extra school levies at the last election and 218 voted them down.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Jan. 9—Safe-blowers and robbers who blew the safe in the Holmes garage, Leesburg, and robbed the postoffice and a butcher shop, afterward escaping in a stolen automobile, have been traced to Chillicothe, where they abandoned the machine.

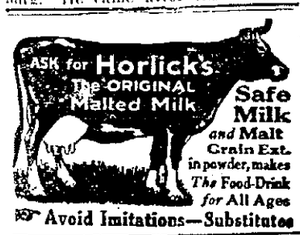

The car, a Buick, was left at the curb on East Fifth street, near the N. & W. tracks, between 4 and 5 o'clock. Police took charge of it Saturday night, after residents had reported that nobody had called for it during the day, and by means of license and motor number ascertained it had been stolen from the garage of A. BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Sir Charles Abingdon engages Paul Harley, criminal investigator, to solve for him the mystery of constant surveillance of Sir Charles. Sir Charles invites Harley to dine with him at the Abingdon home. Sir Charles falls to the floor in a dying condition. His last words are "Nicol Brinn" and "Fire Tongue."

Paul asks Nicol Brinn to tell him the meaning of "Fire-Tongue." Brinn refuses to divulge his secret. Harley and Phil Abingdon, daughter of Sir Charles, are made prisoners in the home of Ormuz Khan, an Oriental. Nicol Brinn rescues them and goes to tell the story of Fire Tongue to the police.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"This was not primarily to scale a peak of the Himalayas, nor even to visit Khatmandu, but to endeavor to obtain a glimpse of the Temple of Fire!

"We had camped for the night in the shadow of one of some giant tors. The bearers were seated around their fire at some little distance from us, and Vadi and I were consulting respecting our route in the morning, when I decided to take him into my confidence. Accordingly:

"'Vadi,' I said, 'I know for a positive fact that we are within ten miles of the secret Temple of Fire.'

"'The sahib is wise,' he replied.

"'So is Vadi,' said I. 'Therefore he knows how happy a thousand pounds of English money would make him. It is his in return for a sight of the Temple.'

"'A man may die for nothing,' he returned, softly. 'Why should the sahib pay a thousand pounds?'

"'Why should the sahib die?' said I.

"'It is forbidden for any to see the Temple, even from a distance.'

"'But if no one ever knows that I have seen it?'

"'Fire-Tongue knows everything,' he replied, and as he pronounced the name, he performed a curious salutation, touching his forefinger with the tip of his tongue, and then laying his hand upon his brow, upon his lips, and upon his breast, at the same time bowing deeply.

"This conversation took place, as I have already mentioned, in the shadow of one of those strange stone hillocks which abounded here, and it was at this point that I received a warning which might have deterred many men, since it was inexplicable and strangely awesome.

"My attention was drawn to the phenomenon by a sudden cessation of chatter amongst the bearers seated around their fire. I became aware that an absolute stillness had fallen, and in the eyes of the Brahmin who sat facing me I saw a look of exaltation, of wild fanaticism.

"I jerked my head around, looking back over my shoulder, and what I saw I shall never forget, not to this day have I been able to explain the means by which the illusion was produced.

"Moving downward toward me through the jungle darkness, slowly, evenly, but at a height above the ground of what I judged to be about fifteen feet, was a sort of torch or flambeau, visible because it was faintly luminous; and surmounting it was a darting tongue of blue flame!

"At the moment that I set my eyes upon this apparently supernatural spectacle the bearers, crying some word in Hindustani which I did not understand, rose and fled in a body.

"I may say here that I never saw any of them again; although, considering that they took nothing with them, how they regained the nearest village is a mystery which I have never solved.

"Gentlemen, I know the East as few of my fellow-citizens know it. I know something of the powers which are latent in some Orientals and active in others. That my Brahmin guide was a hypnotist and an illusionist, I have since thought.

"For, even as the pattering footsteps of the bearers grew faint in the distance, the fiery torch disappeared as if by magic, and a silken cord was about my throat!

"As I began a desperate fight for life, I realized that, whatever else Vadi might be, he was certainly an expert thug. The jungle, the rocks, seemed to swim around me as I crashed to the ground and felt the Brahmin's knee in the small of my back."

CHAPTER XXXI.

"How I managed to think of any defense against such an attack, and especially in the circumstances, is a matter I have often wondered about since.

"You may observe that I have large hands. Their size and strength served me well on this occasion. At the moment that the rope tightened about my throat I reached up and grasped the Brahmin's left thumb. Desperation gave me additional strength, and I snapped it like a stick of candy.

"Just in the nick of time I felt the cord relax, and, although the veins in my head seemed to be bursting, I managed to get my fingers under that damnable rope.

"Clutching the rope with my left hand, I groaned and lay still. The Brahmin slightly shifted his position, which was what I wanted him to do. The brief respite had been sufficient. As he moved, I managed to draw my knees up, very slightly, for he was a big heavy man, but sufficiently to enable me to throw him off and roll over.

"Then, gentlemen, I dealt with him as he had meant to deal with me; only I used my bare hands and made a job of it.

"The fires burned lower and lower, but I made no attempt to replenish them; and because I sat there so silent, all kinds of jungle creatures crept furtively out of the shadows and watched me with their glittering eyes.

"So the night passed, and dawn found me still sitting there, the dead man huddled on the ground not three paces from me. I am a man who as a rule thinks slowly, but when the light came my mind was fully made up. I dressed myself in Vadi's clothes, and, being very tanned at this time, I think I made a fairly creditable native.

"Faintly throughout the night, above the other sounds of the jungle, I had heard that of distant falling water. Now, an informant at Nagpur, in speaking to me of the secret temple, had used the words:

"'Whoever would see the fire must quit air and pass through water.'

"This mysterious formula he had firmly declined to translate into comprehensible English; but during my journey I had been considering it from every angle, and I had recently come to the conclusion that the entrance to this mysterious place was in some way concealed by water.

"And now, gentlemen, I must relate a discovery which I had made in the act of removing Vadi's clothing. Upon his right forearm was branded a mark resembling the apparition which I had witnessed in the night, namely, a little torch, or flambeau, surmounted by a tongue of fire.

"The plateau upon which I stood was one of a series of giant steps, and on the west was a sheer descent to a dense jungle, where banks of rotten vegetation, sun-dried upon the top, lay heaped about the tree stems.

"Dragging the heavy body of Vadi to the brink of this precipice, I toppled it over, swaying dizzily as I watched it crash down into the poisonous undergrowth two hundred feet below.

"I made a rough cache, where I stored the bulk of my provisions; and, selecting only such articles as I thought necessary for my purpose, I set out again northward, guided by the sound of falling water.

"At midday the heat grew so great that a halt became imperative. The path was still clearly discernible; and in a little cave beside it, which afforded grateful shelter from the merciless rays of the sun, I unfastened my bundle and prepared to take a frugal lunch.

"I was so employed, gentlemen, when I heard the sound of approaching footsteps on the path behind me—the path which I had recently traversed.

"I DEALT WITH HIM AS HE HAD MEANT TO DEAL WITH ME."

"Hastily concealing my bundle, I slipped into some dense undergrowth by the entrance to the cave, and crouched there, waiting and watching. I had not waited very long before a yellow-robed mendicant passed by, carrying a bundle not unlike my own, whereby I concluded that he had come some distance.

"I gave him half an hour's start and then resumed my march. If he could travel beneath a noonday sun, so could I.

"In this fashion I presently came out upon a larger and higher plateau, carpeted with a uniform, stunted undergrowth, and extending as flat as a table, to the very edge of a sheer precipice, which rose from it to a height of three or four hundred feet—gnarled, naked rock, showing no vestige of vegetation.

"By this time the sound of falling water had became very loud, and as I emerged from the gorge through which the path ran on to this plateau I saw, on the further side of this tableland, the yellow robe of the mendicant. He was walking straight for the face of the precipice, and straight for the spot at which, from a fissure in the rock, a little stream leapt out, to fall sheerly ten or fifteen feet into a winding channel, along which it bubbled away westward, doubtless to form a greater waterfall beyond.

"The mendicant was fully half a mile away from me, but in that clear tropical air was plainly visible; and, fearing that he might look around, I stepped back into the comparative shadow of the gorge and watched.

"Gentlemen I saw a strange thing. Placing his bundle upon his head, he walked squarely into the face of the waterfall and disappeared!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

"'Quitting air, must pass through water.' The meaning of those words became apparent enough. I stood at the foot of the waterfall, looking up at the fissure from which it issued.

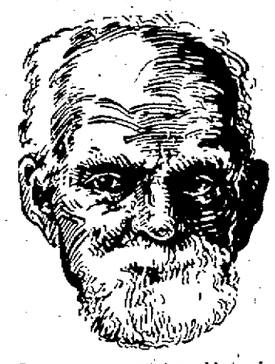

"Although the fact had been most artistically disguised, I could not doubt that this fissure was artificial.

"A great deal of mist arose from it. But I could see that, beyond a ducking, I had little to fear; and, stepping down to the bed of the little stream which frothed and bubbled pleasantly about my bare legs, I set my bundle on my head as the mendicant had done, and plunged through the waterfall, into a place of delicious coolness."

Crossroads of Conversation

Could the telephone directory in the hands of each subscriber be revised from hour to hour, there would be no need for the information operator. But the directory cannot at one time list all subscribers. Even during its printing and binding, thousands of changes take place in the telephone community. New subscribers are added to the list. Old ones move their places of business or of residence.

Though their names are not listed on the directory, these subscribers must be connected by the highways of speech with all others in the community. To supplement the printed page, there must be guides at the crossroads of conversation.

Such are the information operators, selected for their task because of quickness and accuracy, courtesy and intelligence. At their desks, connected with the switchboards in central offices, they relieve the regular operators from answering thousands of questions about telephone numbers that would otherwise impede the rendering of service. If they are asked for numbers already in the directory, service is retarded.

"Information" stands for the most complete utilization of telephone facilities.

River Continues To Fall; Towpath Open

Registering a stage of 43.8 feet here Wednesday morning the Ohio river continued to drop back, the fall of the water for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. amounting to exactly five feet.

After being submerged for almost a week the towpath road was almost entirely free of water this morning when traffic was resumed over the highway to the West Side.

From present indications the fall of the water will be more rapid during the next 48 hours and it is expected that the water will leave the "Y" road by tonight or early Thursday sufficiently to permit traffic over that highway.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Doly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth Ohio.

DEAR DOLLY:—

What can be done with a teacher who makes one of her pupils go out and wash the paint and powder off her face in cold water when the girl would not have used the paint and powder had she not seen her teacher do it right in front of the whole school?

ANXIOUS TO KNOW

The teacher should not censor you for something she did herself, right in front of you, but you must remember that the teacher is old enough to powder her nose, and yours doesn't need powdering as yet. Perhaps when she was your age, she was not allowed to use it, either. Don't spoil a perfectly good complexion with powder and paint, as you will have to use it soon enough, and once you begin, there doesn't seem to be any hope of quitting.

DEAR DOLLY:—

I had a girl in Huntington, W. Va., and I asked her to marry me and she said she would, and told me to go ahead and get the license, and I did, and she laughed at me and said she was only kidding me along. Dolly I got so mad at her that I tore the license to pieces and now I want to know if they can do anything to me for doing that. I want to go back to Huntington but I am afraid they will arrest me for not turning that license back. Please help me with your advice.

A WORRIED BOY

The license was bought and paid for and you could tear it up if you wanted to. Would advise you to go back to Huntington and forget about the license and the girl. As this is leap year, I think it would be a good idea to let her pop the question the next time.

DEAR DOLLY:—

Please print in the Times, if there is a Y. M. C. A. in New York City. If so, what street is it located on.

MANY THANKS

I imagine there are dozens of Y. M. C. A.'s in New York City. You might inquire at the local "Y" for further information, or just address your letter to the Y. M. C. A. New York City, and it will be delivered to one of them.

DEAR DOLLY:—

I was born on March 20, 1890. What day of the week did that fall upon? Dolly when a mouse is full grown is it called a rat?

B. G.

March 20, 1890, fell on Thursday. Rats are distinguished from mice by their considerably large size. Any of the numerous species of small rodents are called mice.

DEAR DOLLY—

I am a young man of seventeen and have been going with a young girl of sixteen. I think very much of her and she seems to think a lot of me. My father and mother are opposed to me going with the girls although they do not know anything about me going with her. I do not allow this to interfere with my studies in the least. I have been very much worried as to know what to do in regard to this matter.

A READER

No wonder you are worried, since you are deceiving your parents, by going with the girls against their wishes. Even if it does not interfere with your studies, you should not keep steady company with any girl until you are a few years older, say 20 or 21.

From One Who Can't Dance—If you will call me on 840 I will give you the information you inquired about.

Mrs. Albert Reiser of the Franklin M. E. Church who attended the National Convention at Sioux City, Iowa in October gave an interesting report of the events at that time.

The social meeting of All Saints' church, which was to have been held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. L. Williams on Fourth street has been postponed until a later date in account of illness in the Williams home.

The phone number in the residence of Dr. Tunis Nunemaker, 1823 Timmonds avenue, has been changed from 193-L to 2491.

Mrs. William H. Schwartz and Miss Josephine Banta very delightfully entertained the members of the David Tappan Circle of the First Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Schwartz, 712 Sixth street. This was the holiday meeting and was very largely attended. During the business session the new officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—Miss Ruth Hopkins.

Vice-President—Miss Anna Smith.

Secretary—Miss Mary Katherine Baker.

Treasurer—Miss Christine Downie.

It was also decided to hold the regular meeting of the Circle the second Tuesday of each month.

After the routine business was disposed of the remainder of the afternoon was spent in games and music. Mrs. William H. Gleiser and daughter Betty were guests for the afternoon.

Miss Mary Carlyle will entertain the members of the Ketchum Auxiliary of the Second Presbyterian church on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her home, 1312 Second street. The annual election of officers will be held at this time and all members are urged to attend. Mrs. Robert G. Bryan will act as Group leader and her assistants will be Mrs. B. E. Leete, Mrs. W. E. Gemmell, Mrs. H. C. Bugh, Mrs. Chester Davidson and Mrs. Russell Becker.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NANCY RIDES A CIRCUS HORSE

Suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet

Well, everybody got back safely to Daddy Gander Land—all except Mother Goose, who said she would be delayed an hour or so on account of having to call on the weather man.

But even that didn't leave Daddy Gander much time for all he had to do. He hadn't expected his wife home for a week.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed to the Twins. "It's a very good thing that we ran into her when we did. I never like to have her come home without sending me word, and that's something she doesn't always do."

Everybody knew what Daddy meant. He meant the big sign which said "Mother Goose—Her Land." when Mother Goose was at home, but on the other side of which Daddy had printed "Daddy Gander—His Land." while she was away. And that side was always out when Mother Goose was away up in the sky. And Daddy bossed things with a high hand then.

"We'll have to turn the sign around the way it belongs," said Daddy anxiously, looking at the sky. "Mother may be back any minute."

Away went Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker to fix it, when suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet. The telegram read:

Daddy Gander—Mother Goose Land—Earth:

Can't get home today. Weatherman gone visiting and can't find him. Will have to stay and watch the rain-barrels so they don't splash over and spoil the circus. Best love.

Mother Goose.

"Well, well, well! I guess there's no hurry then," said Daddy Gander as he folded the telegram Mother Goose had dropped out of the sky, and stuck it in his pocket. "Come on. We can go to the circus yet. It's just about ready to begin."

The big tent was nearly full when they got there. There were the Tweedles—their faces scrubbed so they shown like milk-pans. And there were the Peterses—for since he got such a lecture on stinginess Peter had been very generous with his wife! And the Pipers and the Daws and the Sintloes and the Hearts and the Horners and Blues and Dumplings and everybody.

Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker had to sit on the lowest board, right next to the ground. But it was loads of fun. The clowns did hand-springs right in front of them, and all sorts of funny things to make them laugh. And when the monkeys came along, racing on pigs, the Twins could almost have touched them, they were so close.

But what do you think! The circus-man came up and whispered to Daddy Gander that one of the bareback riders was sick and they would have to leave off her act.

Nancy heard him.

"I have my magic shoes and I'd love to ride a horse," she declared. "Oh, please, so let me!"

And so it happened that Nancy put on fluffy skirts and a shiny crown and rode a big white horse in the circus.

And to this day the people in Daddy Gander Land say she was the best they ever saw.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — ON THE Y-6 RANCH

BY ELTON

Jack, of course, held on best he could. But the mad steer was too strong for him. Suddenly the little adventurer's pony straightened his front feet and stopped short. In an instant Jack was flying through the air, right over his pony's head. And the mad steer grew madder.

Now things looked serious for Jack. The cowboys saw this and turned their horses once more in pursuit of the steer. Jack in the meantime, fortunately landed on his feet and as soon as he did he got his balance and started to run zigzag over the ground as the steer pulled him.

"Good boy!" shouted the cowboys, as Jack bounded along. Flip, in the meantime, saw that his master was getting tired, so he rushed up to the steer's head and started to bark. This for the time being, startled the steer and it slowed down, giving Jack time to catch his breath. (Continued.)

COX CONTINUES TO FAVOR U. S. ENTRANCE IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS; SAYS AMERICA'S ALOOFNESS CAUSE OF EUROPEAN SUFFERING

The following is the text of James M. Cox's address:

We are here to do honor to a great American. That we assemble on the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans does not imply that our purpose is to glorify war.

This military achievement of Andrew Jackson settled the ownership of the Louisiana territory and left our flag where Jefferson put it. What it meant to our national renown, history acclaims; what it was in terms of service to our people, a nation's gratitude attests. The great drama, of which he was a part, closed almost a century ago, and in the view of today, he demonstrated the elements of greatness by recognizing his responsibility to civilization. He was the doer of things and the compelling question with him always was the righteousness of the cause and not who was for it and who against it. He continues a patron saint of Democracy because his character and works are an inspiration. If, in his principles and achievements we find no guidance, then he becomes only a memory, and Jackson Day a sort of mere Pagan observance. No one would have scorned such posterity more than "Old Hickory" himself. My thought is we find in Andrew Jackson both a text and a guide, and the wisdom and beneficence of his labors still light the way for a useful Democracy. He loved his party because he saw in it an instrumentality for service, based on justice. He fought under its banner because it recognized no class distinctions, and, like Jefferson, he kept it clean, untouched by those who would use government chiefly for selfish ends. His spirit now would tell us to promote the cause of service—service to humanity. Certainly no hour in all history ever made higher call upon the soul of mankind.

Appreciating the gravity of existing conditions, let us seek to find the means of relief for a sad and miserable world, by avoiding the ingredients of cheap cant and hypocisy which have drifted into the political life of America in the last few years. It is not difficult to find symptoms of international disorder. Indeed, they rise before us like horrid specters of a great tragedy. More men have been killed in war, more homes have been desolated, more hearts have been broken, more women, children and old people have starved to death, than ever before. These were the awful price of the continuing evils of the old order. Immersed in a perfect sea of human blood, we praised God finally for our deliverance and implored Him to save our children from such an experience. Humanity has a sustaining philosophy. It sees compensations even for prolonged despair, and the effort to make them a reality constitutes the most titanic struggle that ever moved the forces of civilization. As Sherman Eddy, that eminent citizen, says:

"We are living in the birth pangs of a world struggling to be reborn, and the issues of our time will reach into eternity."

Certainly the new day will never dawn with isolated endeavors here and there. An awakened consciousness, possessing the peoples of the earth, must be followed by a movement, world-wide in its support and momentum. Is America doing her part? Is she an obstructing unit in the circle of nations? Is her attitude such that history will record her a laggard, steeped either in a sinful selfishness or helpless from the poison of political hate and prejudice? None will deny that whatever is done by our country must be through our government. Organized government was devised in recognition of the futility of individual endeavor in behalf of any enterprise affecting the general interest. No question, therefore, is more pertinent to inquiry and discussion than the present status of our governmental affairs. Is not there justification for the charge that our government is not properly functioning in either international or domestic matters? At Washington, an almost complete state of deadlock exists, and whether the congress accomplishes anything worth while, is a mooted question. Our limited participation with other nations, in matters of universal concern, is well known. It is an unprecedented situation and results either from a concentrated development of reactionaryism, or a complete official ineptitude, to deal with problems requiring progressive thought. An economic and intellectual reaction is taking form in the country. Artificial devices have been created by those responsible for unsound policies, but the day of reckoning is on its way. Congressional elections, particularly in the west and northwest, reflect tendencies as revolutionary as in 1912.

And yet, notwithstanding the low estate to which the causes of isolation and reactionaryism are drifting, the Democracy of the nation must not delude itself into the belief that its success is guaranteed and that a characterless policy of negation is sufficient in the circumstances.

In a sense, the reactionary party in America is a minority. The same is true in England. In both countries, the experience has been the same. Pre-war political policies do not meet modern conditions. In England two parties, in opposition to the Conservatives, and events must decide to which one of these two parties, leadership will ultimately be given. Under the surface of our public thought, the same individual alignments may be in the making. Having in mind such a possibility, our policies for the immediate future must not be based upon shallow ideas of opportunism. Let the reactionaries on the other hand go their way, serving mammon as of yore. Let the radicals, if such a movement is forming, make their own track. The Democratic party is safely progressive and, at heart it still believes in the practical humanitarianism of Woodrow Wilson. In England today citizens once allied with the reactionaries, are turning to the Liberals and imploring them to save the country from what they believe will be devastating consequences of a radical regime. When the stressful hour strikes in America, the salvation of the country will be in the hands of the Democracy, occupying the constructive middle ground between the two forms of radicalism, no one of which is more dangerous than the other. Our path is the straight one. It is no time for the hounds to be running with the hairs.

Broad dissatisfaction with a ruling regime often breeds revolt. The imagination of detached units was recently arrested by a movement more or less spectacular. Whatever collapse has ensued has been only in the personal candidacy involved. The public sentiment behind it is still in plastic state and it is yet too early to predict the course it will take. The currents of events will determine that. But the whole development is a symptom. Certainly it is a sign of disgust with the littleness into which our political life is sinking. Let us diagnose this condition. It is neither necessary nor sufficient to indulge in a mere abstract opinion. Specifications are at hand. Remember first that we are in a crisis unparalelled and the very soul of the world's humanity is in the throes of a supreme effort to shake itself free from the involvments and tragedies of the old order of things. In this moment of sublime possibilities, let us see what is going on in our political life:

Two men sit at the president's cabinet table who participated in a fraud and deception practiced upon the American people, in order to achieve political ends.

The bonus question is thrown into the arena and tossed about for the purpose of gaining the soldier vote.

Great ado is made about the proposal to reduce direct taxes upon incomes while hundreds of millions of dollars are to be indirectly taken in the aggregate from every family in America under a tariff law that robs the mass to enrich the class.

Bills, intended ostensibly to relieve the farmer from the low prices he gets for what he sells and the high costs he pays for what he buys, are introduced, discussed and exploited to compose the rural clamor.

Paternalistic projects are proposed in and out of congress as an ensnaring magnet to organized labor.

As a climax, the state department and a group in the senate are to spend part of the congressional session in prolonged hearings, and in a joint debate in the press, over the thrilling question of whether the Russian Soviets are trying to overthrow the government at Washington.

If these activities reflect our governmental capacity to meet the needs of the time, it will be difficult to hold public confidence. If these same activities are accepted as an index to the policies of one or both of the two old parties, the faith of devoted followers will be rudely shattered.

Crises in the history of our country have developed a high order of statesmanship, but no one ever rose to that discinction by superficial concept. Fundamentals were considered. They must be if we are to progress. The fundamentals of the present economic situation make no impression on the present regime in Washington. It never catches the inspiration of the dawn. True to reactionary faith, it futilely seeks to reestablish the old world. It has, whether intentional or not, fixed the issue of American isolation, economic and political. It has created this isolation which conflicts with every moral and economic truth. Under it we cannot maintain our self-respect nor our place in the trade of the world. This question takes us to the very root of our troubles. It must be settled before we can take a single constructive step. Other things are trifling in comparison. The two forms of isolation, economical and political, have cost us hundreds of dollars in trade, and deprived us of a moral leadership out of which would have come the Republic's most priceless inheritance. There can be neither stability nor justice in a prosperity that does not include every agency that contributes to our aggregated production. Any system that conveys more than its rights to any interests is subtracting the rights of other interests. There is neither sense nor morality in subjecting the growers of our food supplies to a continuing oppression. For almost four years two extremes have pressed upon them: low prices on whatever they sell and high prices upon their every purchase. The reactionary economists dismiss the matter with the simple observation that this is a most anomalous situation. In the past inequalities have been adjusted through a wisely concentrated public opinion. In the last few years this order of things has not prevailed. Elections have been controlled by the solidarity of racial bitterness and partisan hatred, rather than the solidarity of reason and patriotism. Ultimately the reasons at the base of the farmer's troubles will make wide appeal, because agricultural depression can not be isolated.

More than a million and a half people left the land and moved to the cities last year. Secretary Wallace, of the Agricultural department, says that one farmer in every twelve has been sold out through bankruptcy or foreclosure. Whatever the farmer buys is manufactured in the cities where prices are fixed through a concerted system of profiteering built up and perfected under the Fordney-McCumber tariff law. The point of all of this is that the farmer is rushing to the cities where industry has been temporarily stimulated by legislative enactment. The farmer, however, cannot be helped by statute in any measurable degree, and if his stressful plight continues, an unfavorable reaction will come to the urban population.

Every competent authority on this subject knows what the economic disorder is!

The Departments of State and Commerce at Washington also know!

The channels of trade are drugged and sluggish from our policy of isolation. The country's surplus is without the outlet of other days. Statistics show the decline in our foreign commerce. Mr. Hoover himself, in his statement on "Economic Prospects in 1924", says: "Less than six per cent of our total productivity is exported." Furthermore, he asserts that both "economic and political reactions at home" are due to the diminished demand abroad for our farm products. The average citizen naturally inquires why corrective measures are not adopted, if economic ills are well marked and the underlying causes are perfectly apparent.

This brings us to the very crux of the whole question. The controlling powers within the Republican party, adopted the policy of isolation for a two-fold purpose: to embarrass a Democratic president and then later to effect solidarity within their ranks. They sacrificed principle to appease the small remnant of bitter-enders, so-called. Measures devised for expediency they now seek to justify in principle. Every interest that profits by tariff bargaining, every blind partisan—to say nothing of some subservient and hypocritical newspapers, stand behind the present movement to defend what every honest man knows is a subterfuge and a fraud. When a country overseas collapses, the high priests of isolation observe that we are lucky to be out of European affairs. Never in the world's history has truth been confronted by a more artful subsidized sophistry.

For four years, the American conspirators from whose sins untold millions have suffered, have vainly wished that the League of Nations would die! That would in their view bring a sweeping vindication.

It is a terrible indictment that those in control of our government have shared this unholy desire, and yet the facts support such a charge.

But the League doesn't die! It continues to confound its enemies. When Austria seemed doomed, suffering from the aftermath of war, when no plan and no agency was in sight to save her, the League of Nations performed the seemingly impossible task of preservation. It is significant that Mr. Hoover, in his survey of European countries that are economically sick, does not include Austria, although Switzerland, Holland and Great Britain are in his list.

And now Hungary, too, is being saved by the League. The means of salvation in both these countries demonstrates that there is something besides altruism that holds together this great institution of peace. Budgets have been balanced, currency stabilized, and hunger and starvation halted. It will be interesting to observe what part it plays when the actual reconstruction of Germany begins.

That country, in all probability, will seek admittance this month, and should be taken in. When war threatened between Greece and Italy and skeptic and conspirator alike believed that the day of justification was at hand, the league averted hostilities. It was the great controlling force which removed an international tension in ten days' time. Never before in all history had the means been provided for the assembling of the public opinion of the world. It was a sublime tribute to the power of moral force. No modern Cæsar dared defy it. Just what would have happened in the affairs of nations and peoples without the league one shudders to contemplate. Its activities although unobtrusive, have covered many fields of usefulness. It has been the one haven in the world's storms. To it disputes have been referred and through conference endless complications have been clarified. Last year, four international conventions assembled at Geneva, at which Americans were in attendance in some representative capacity. This circumstance, at first blush might seem to dispute the claim that the attitude of the administration is unfriendly to the League, even as an organization independent of America. The plain truth is that the administration has deliberately avoided every contact possible under a policy of veneered neutrality. Time will reveal whether another surrender is to be made to the "bitter-end" opposition to our entering the International Court of Justice. Reservations proposed in the senate have fooled no one. Regardless of the name they bear, their authorship is an old familiar one. If the administration takes no notice of the spirit underlying these reservations in question, it will be making tracks into the very course taken four years ago when conspiracy pointed the way. Gestures may be made, but party solidarity will again be the objective, even though it places a political party which has honorable traditions, squarely against an enterprise that nations, statesmen and jurists have sought to create through more than a generation. It is not necessary to discuss the merits of the Court. Only recently has there been criticism of the method of electing the judges. This very important detail has to clear through some responsible agency. The League was the only international organization worthy of the name, and very naturally this task was assigned to it. Unless fifty nations now recognize and dignify Republican childishness and fanaticism, then America, under existing official auspices, is to stay out of the court. The present senatorial plan is to kill the court proposal. We shall see whether the White House witnesses the execution unmoved by protest. That will be the test. It may also demonstrate whether foreign affairs, contrary to constitutional provision, are to be exclusively controlled by the senate. Possibly it will reveal which one of two distinguished citizens of Massachusetts is the actual leader of the Republican party.

Another, and in some ways the most important, question bearing upon the world's economic problem is reparations. America, through our government, is responsible for its not being settled. Yea, more than that, we are blamable for the Ruhr invasion, and its terrible economic cost, because we could have prevented it all. Again we can submit specifications rather than an abstract indictment. The Treaty of Versailles carried terms which its makers knew could not be met. The psychology of the times born of a war bitterness was not unprecedented. In consequence of it, there were some extreme views at the peace table. Those sharing more moderate opinions accepted what formed the final settlement, realizing that powers granted to the reparations commission would enable that body to correct such errors as might be developed by time and events. In the summer of 1922, the reparations tangle was susceptible of settlement. The European nations involved in it were deadlocked but no one was less eager than the other for an adjustment. The judgment of America would have been accepted. It could have been rendered by a representative on the reparations commission. In the separate treaty of peace which our government made with Germany, we reserved full rights of membership on this commission. It was never availed of, however, except that we sent an official observer. Possessing no authority, he was useless. Germany was able to pay more then than she can now. She was willing to submit to an economic survey, as the means of establishing what her capacity was. But America did nothing. The economic collapse came. Thousands have starved in Germany and the conditions grow worse daily. The loss has not only been a staggering one to Germany, but France, under a state of things we could and should have avoided, will get less for her devastated provinces than she otherwise would have received. No country of the size and economic importance of Germany, can collapse, without serious reaction upon the rest of the world.

Secretary Hoover, in a recent statement, presented what he designated as "an economic weather chart of the world" made up of three distinct areas. These are his words in describing one of the subdivisions:

"An area of economic depression resulting from the occupation of the Ruhr, and the collapse in Germany, while most acute in that country, radiates its depressing influences strongly over Poland Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Hungary, Scandinavia, Holland and Great Britain. France can well be placed in this group because the failure to secure reparations has contributed to an unbalanced budget and resulting in direct inflation. This has concealed the true situation and has given an artificial and forced draught to the industrial activity. The other countries of the group are suffering from a distressing increase of unemployment."

If anything additional were needed to paint a picture of the results of American isolation, Mr. Hoover supplies it, in his summary in these words: "The world situation continues under the European cloud of the reparations disputes, etc."

Recently a movement was inaugurated to survey Germany's condition. The forces of civilization insist that something must be salvaged out of a nation's wreck, in order that some sort of new beginning may be set in motion. Anything less than this would be oppressive cruelty and a reflection on every church and fireside in the civilized world. Three American citizens are serving on the commission to which the work is assigned, but they are there in their private capacities. The American government is playing no part whatsoever. This, the latest form of isolation, reveals the whole creed in the nakedness of its pitiless inhumanity.

This is the foreign policy of our republic.

It is either to be approved or condemned, and mere condemnation without proposing something to take its place, would ill become any political party. If we are not to isolate ourselves, then what shall be the manner and method of our participation? We are agreed that some preventive against war must be found. Such a thing is not possible except through the accord of nations. Fifty-two nations have joined in a plan out of which has come a useful going concern. At present, it is the only available agency of international coordination. Fifty-two nations might give it up for something better, if the leading nation of the world had something better to propose, but it is hardly conceivable that they would blindly follow a government, which has nothing whatever to offer. Frankly I have not an imagination sufficient to visualize the sort of international peace agency that the discordant elements within the Republican party could agree upon. It is a waste of time to even wait for anything from this quarter. We hear the opinion expressed that the question should be taken out of politics. The Republican president avows that the matter is a closed incident, which means that no administration aid can be expected in any circumstances. If the Democracy also closes the door, then would the situation be other than a complete American surrender. How many of us have heard it said that events will render our association with the League in time inevitable, but that the sustained propoganda against it, has resulted in doubt and misunderstanding — therefore, as a politically expedient measure, we should abandon our sponsorship. In other words, Republican conspiracy is to be matched with Democratic cowardice. I do not speak for others, but for myself I shall not favor any evasion which subjects the political party of Andrew Jackson to disgrace and degradation!

I am in favor of associating ourselves with the League of Nations under conditions that will meet every conscientious American objection to past proposals.

The Democratic presidents who will live in history are Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson—men of courage, men who stood for definite principles and avoided the little things in political discussion. If their concept of democracy is to be ours, if we are to be worthy of their political name, we must stand for the welfare of humanity, for honesty to our soldiers dead, for charity and forbearance to vanquished peoples, and for the preservation of a nation's honor.

I Know A Fellow

Who walked the streets for weeks trying to find a job, but was unsuccessful, and what do you suppose he did? Well, sir, he opened an employment agency to get jobs for others. I was telling a friend of mine about him and he laughed and said, "Why, dog gone it, that's nothing I know a fellow who has been a failure at everything he ever tackled in his life, and sometime ago he announced himself an efficiency expert, and now the largest concerns in the city are paying him big money to tell them how to run their business," — just like lots of people try to tell us how to fit those black and brown six dollar shoes we are selling for a few days at five.

Evil Stirred Up By Jazz, Asserts Ohioan

AKRON, O., Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—There is no such thing as jazz music, Lynn B. Danna, president of a Warren, Ohio, music institute declared today addressing the Akron Rotary club on "music and morals."

"Jazz is nothing but dangerous rhythm, born of the worst impulses of the lowest types of the human race," Mr. Danna said. "It is dangerous because it stirs men and women to barbarous and evil deeds by its syncopations."

Mr. Danna said the music produced last year was an improvement of that of the year before, and predicted that the day of jazz is gone. He also criticized the music of some church hymns which he said was nothing but waltzes, two steps or other dance music fitted to sacred words.

$10,000 DAMAGES ASKED FOR BOOZE RAID OF POLICE

NEWARK, O., January 9.—(By the A. P.)—The resignation of Charles Hager, appointed chief of police December 30 by the outgoing administration, and of Warren Suter and O. D. Erwin, members of the civil service commission, and the filing of a $10,000 damage suit against former Safety Director Ned Sherburne, were today's developments in the political and administrative situation in this city.

The suit against Sherbourne was filed by Patrick Rogers for the return of wine confiscated during a raid on Rogers" home. Rogers was arrested nine months ago on a charge of illegal possession of liquor and found guilty by B. F. McDonald, state prohibition commissioner, acting municipal judge in the absence of Judge Frank Bolton. On a rehearing he was acquitted and demanded the return of wine which had been emptied after his conviction.

The clerk and sergeant-at-arms, both said to be anti-Klan, were replaced at the meeting of the newly elected council.

YOUR DAUGHTER'S HEALTH

Mothers of Ailing Daughters, Attention

How Two Mothers Helped Their Daughters by Giving them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Every mother possesses information of vital importance to her young daughter, and the responsibility for the girl's future is largely in her hands.

When a school girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she suffers the consequences of wet feet, pain, headaches, fainting spells, loss of sleep and appetite and is irregular, her mother should have a care for her physical condition and give her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has proved a reliable aid to nature for just such conditions in so many cases.

First Bottle Helped Her

Richmond, Indiana.—"I am sending this letter to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did my daughter. She was troubled with nervousness so that she was restless at night, and then she could not sleep and she was afraid of everything. She could not work as she was not strong enough, and she had to quit school at 14 because she was ill so much. The doctor said she had a nervous breakdown and her system was all run down. She had pains in her right side and through her back, and the medicine she took did her no good at all. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's advertisement in our paper, telling all that the Vegetable Compound had done for other women so I said, 'We will try it out and see what it does.' She had not taken the first bottle before it began to help her, and we will always say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine she ever took." —Mrs. E. DARBY, 911 N. 16th St., Richmond, Indiana.

An Ohio Mother Reports

Columbus, Ohio. — "When my daughter became 14 years of age she was ailing very much. The doctor gave her medicine, but she was very weak, and he always had to write excuses for her as she could not attend the 'gym' classes, and I often had to keep her home from school. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and run-down condition, so I gave her three doses daily, and also Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. Our friends are surprised to see how fine and tall she is getting and how well she is. I will gladly answer letters and give you a fine recommendation for other mothers." —Mrs. MARIE MIELKE, 814 Ebner Street, Columbus, Ohio.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies answer "Yes." That means that 98 out of every 100 women who have taken this medicine have been helped by it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Seek Fund To Make Dayton U. S. Capital For Trapshooters

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Headquarters of the Amateur Trapshooting Association will be established at Dayton, Ohio, and the Grand American Handicap Shoot will be held there for the next fifteen years if a fund of $20,000 needed to finance the enterprise is raised among the trapshooters in the United States and Canada, according to announcement here today.

The plan has been under consideration since the 1923 championship tournament of the association at Chicago. The fund is needed to make good the offer of Dayton interests to provide 62 acres of land, $4,500 in cash and 125 life membership pledges if the association will install the necessary equipment and make Dayton the trapshooting center of the continent.

Officials hope to raise the desired fund within the next few weeks from life membership subscriptions in the association.

German Druggist Sent to Jail When He Scorned Paper Marks

BERLIN, January 9.—(A. P.)—Six months in jail and a fine of ten trillion marks was the sentence imposed on a Frankfort druggist for refusal to take paper marks in exchange for petroleum. He told the court he had to pay for the oil in some sort of stable money and consequently did not know how he could replenish his stock if he sold for paper marks.

Under the laws of the republic paper marks are legal tender and the judge had the druggist hustled off to jail immediately, explaining that such treatment of the dealer would have good effect on other merchants and afford the public protection.

"Bootleggers' War Zone" Quiet After Arrival of Troops

MARION, ILL., January 9.—(By the A. P.)—Three companies of national guardsmen ordered out today for duty here by Adjutant General Carlos Black in Springfield, arrived late today. The town was quiet.

The troops were sent at the request of Sheriff George Galligan, who advised Adjutant General Carlos Black that he feared rioting might break out as a result of the "bootlegging war."

In three raids in less than three weeks, the last of which was last night, when a score of men were arrested, 212 persons have been arrested for alleged violation of the dry laws.

Klan Takes Part

The raids have been conducted by federal agents assisted by hundreds of deputized citizens, many of them admitted members of the Ku Klux Klan. A counter organization to the Klan, known as the Flaming Circle, sprung up six months ago shortly after the Klan organizers appeared in Williamson county.

The raids have been conducted without the knowledge of Sheriff Galligan.

Sheriff Galligan, who is sick with pneumonitis, explained he requested troops merely as a precaution.

Becomes Mob Violence

Deputy Sheriff John Layman, however, stated that the call for troops was because the actions of the raiders has "assumed the proportions of mob violence."

Trouble was feared, it was said, over the trial of S. Glenn Young, dry worker, which began in justice's court today. Young is charged with assault. He appeared in court today with a large assemblage of friends who carried two machine guns "for protection." Young is alleged to have struck Paul Corder with a revolver two weeks ago during an argument over the raids.

There has been considerable activity in dry raids in Williamson county, the scene of the Herrin mine killings, since last fall. In October, prohibition agents from East St. Louis raided a number of stills.

Four Shot In Raids

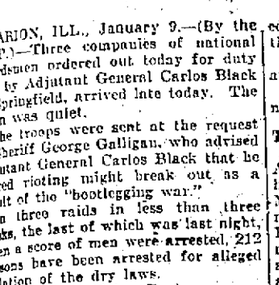

On December 22, 136 persons were arrested in raids in which members of the Ku Klux Klan participated. Four persons were shot. Otis Clark, one of the defendants acquitted in the Herrin mine trials, was one of those arrested. A number of the resorts opened when the agents left. In front of one resort more than 100 automobiles were counted by newspaper men two days after the wholesale raid.

Last Saturday night 56 persons were arrested and one resort was burned.

Another resort was burned in last night's raids.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and everwidening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

Two-Thirds of Mr. AcAdoo this time as in 1920.

The opposition to McAdoo, however, has become alarmed at the turn of events. The Democratic National committee is composed of a membership of 53 men and 53 women, two for each state of the union, the Philippines, Porto Rico, Alaska, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia. The committeewomen are absolutely on a parity in voting power with the committeemen. And the women are said to be almost all for McAdoo. A majority of the National committee is enough to adopt a resolution which will abrogate the two thirds rule if the convention itself does not object. The victory of the McAdoo forces in the National committee would go far toward helping the cause of their candidate in the convention.

As it stands now, the McAdoo managers are confident of a majority of the delegates, applying of course, the unit rule by voting by states. If the two thirds rule were abrogated they would have an easy time of it.

Feeling Against McAdoo

The opposition to McAdoo has thus far been unorganized. There is, of course bitter feeling against his boom on the part of the "wets" for McAdoo is "dry." Big business inside the Democratic party is largely opposed to McAdoo because of his friendship for labor when he was Director General of the Railroads. Democratic politicians in some of the states like Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Maryland, where state organizations are closely knit are opposed to McAdoo because he and the Wilson elements in the party are accused of failing to recognize "organization men" in the party.

Until now, the opponents of McAdoo have depended on the one third bloc to beat him. Now they realize they can not beat "somebody with nobody," as the saying goes in politics and, accordingly, there has developed a tacit understanding among the friends of the other candidates to stand together as against McAdoo. The latter groups will conduct the fight against the abrogation of the two thirds rule.

The friends of Al Smith, of New York, are beginning to work openly in states like Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, New Jersey and Maryland. The Underwood forces are active in the South and the West Virginia admirers of John W. Davis are said to be getting ready to open a headquarters. Meanwhile the McAdoo campaign has headquarters in Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and Washington and the McAdoo scouts are touring the country, particularly the South, trying to stampede the delegations for their candidate. The fight on the inside of the Democratic National Committee for the abrogation of the two thirds rule in the nominating conventions at present looks favorable to McAdoo though much can happen 'twixt now and the meeting next week.

Bar Committee Makes Serious Charges Against Attorney A. R. Campbell Sr.; He Denies Them

The committee, composed of Hon. A. T. Holcomb and Attorneys Edgar G. Millar and Arthur H. Bannon, appointed by Judge James S. Thomas to investigate charges of alleged misconduct and unprofessional conduct on the part of A. R. Campbell, Sr., an attorney at law, practicing in the local courts, made its report to the court Wednesday morning as a result of its investigation, and carrying with it a finding that Attorney Campbell has been guilty of misconduct in office, and of unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude. The committee further recommends that Attorney Campbell should be disbarred from the practice of law in any of the courts of the State of Ohio.

The specific charges recited by the committee in its report to the court relates to the conduct of Attorney Campbell in respect to a suit for divorce filed by him in the Greenup county, Kentucky, Circuit court last November for Olive Price of 607 Market street, Portsmouth, Ohio, and in connection with the circumstances under which he was admitted to the practice of law in Ohio.

Soon after the committee had filed its report Judge Thomas ordered a hearing on the charges at 9 o'clock Saturday morning when Attorney Campbell will be given opportunity to appear and defend himself. The hearing will be conducted before Judge Will P. Stephenson, of West Union, who is expected to arrive in the city tonight, and will be here the remainder of the week hearing a special docket.

Commenting on the charges brought against him, Attorney Campbell denied that he had done anything wrong and declared his intention to appear in court to defend himself and that he hoped to explain things satisfactorily. He admitted that he had been indicted in Lewis county, Kentucky, but declared that the charges were inspired by his enemies and that the charges had been long since dismissed without him ever having been required to appear in court to answer them. He further admitted filing a suit for divorce in the Greenup county, Kentucky, court for Mrs. Olive Price on her representation that she was a resident of Kentucky, but claimed that he filed a motion to dismiss the action recently upon learning that Mrs. Price was really a resident of Ohio, and with the intention of instituting a similar action in the local court.

Mr. Campbell stated his intention of seeking a postponement of the hearing so as to give him sufficient time in which to prepare his defense.

The charges in full made against Attorney Campbell are as follows:

"The committee heretofore appointed by the Court to investigate the conduct of A. R. Campbell, Sr., do find and present that on or about the 26th day of November, 1923, one Olive Price did consult the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., with the view of obtaining a divorce from her husband, Harrison Price; that said Olive Price resided at No. 607 Market Street in the city of Portsmouth, Ohio, and had resided there for more than one year last past and was a legal resident of the State of Ohio and that said facts were well known to the said A. R. Campbell, Sr.,; that notwithstanding the fact that said Olive Price was a legal resident of the State of Ohio, the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., did advise the said Olive Price that it would be easier for her to obtain a divorce in Greenup county, Kentucky, and the said A. R. Campbell, Sr. did proceed to file, or have filed a suit for divorce for said Olive Price against said Harrison Price in the Circuit Court of Greenup County, Kentucky.

The committee further finds and presents that after the filing of said case in said court of Greenup, Kentucky, the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., at various times, in consultation with his client Olive Price did notify the said Olive Price that it would be necessary in the trial of her case in said Greenup County, Kentucky, to prove that she, the said Olive Price, was a legal resident of Greenup County, Kentucky, and did advise the said Olive Price to so testify when he, the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., well knew that said testimony would be false and would constitute perjury on the part of the said Olive Price, and the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., did further request the said Olive Price to have her father and mother testify falsely that the said Olive Price was a legal resident of Greenup County, Kentucky. That all of said advice and requests to so testify were made by the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., when he, the said A. R. Campbell, Sr. had full knowledge that the said Olive Price resided at No. 607 Market Street in the City of Portsmouth, Scioto County, Ohio and had no legal residence whatsoever in the State of Kentucky.

The committee further finds and presents that at the time the said A. R. Campbell, Sr. was admitted to practice in the State of Ohio it was necessary for him to file proofs of good character and that he did file affidavits in the Supreme Court of Ohio purporting to show he was a man of good character, when in truth and in fact the said A. R. Campbell, Sr. was then under indictment for various crimes, offenses and misdemeanors at Vanceburg, Kentucky and was not a man of good repute and character at said time.

The committee finds upon the foregoing facts that the said A. R. Campbell, Sr., has been guilty of misconduct in office, and of unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude, and that by reason thereof the said A. R. Campbell, Sr. should be suspended and removed from the office of attorney at law and should not be permitted to practice as an attorney at law in any of the courts of the State of Ohio.

Respectively submitted,

New Cutlery Plant May Locate Here

Members of the West End Improvement Association at their regular session Tuesday heard discussed the possibility of the Poughkeepsie Cutlery Works, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., locating a plant in Portsmouth. The only other matter to come before the organization was the overflow of the sanitary sewer at Third and Chillicothe streets.

Atty. Mark A. Crawford presented the case of the Cutlery works, which manufactures cutlery and hard tools. The concern, its attorney said, is seeking a site for their plant, which employs about 250 men and requires the purchase of $100,000 in stock by capitalists of the city in which it shall locate. In return, the company will give seats on the directorate to the new stockholders.

The firm could move within six week's notice, it is said.

The company operates several plants which it hopes to combine into one big plant in one central city.

The West End Association took no action on the matter which is being thoroughly investigated by the Chamber of Commerce.

Adolph Hurth Jr. brought up the matter of the overflow of the sanitary sewer at Third and Chillicothe streets which, in the recent high water, caused no little water to fill in his lot on that corner, where excavation for the new Hurth Hotel is being made. The association discussed possible remedies.

as a candidate for nomination as their gubernatorial choice.

In his declaration, Donahey used exactly 40 words. They were:

"One year ago today the mantle of Democracy, worn by Governors Campbell, Pattison, Harmon and Cox, was thrown across my shoulders and I expect to return it to the Democratic party of Ohio three years from today, clean and undefiled."

Curiously enough, three of the former executives mentioned by Donahey occupied seats at the speakers' table with him, Governors Campbell and Harmon, besides Governor Cox, having parts in the program of praise for Democracy and Andrew Jackson, as its patron saint.

Forms Entry In League

"I am in favor of associating ourselves with the League of Nations under conditions that will meet every conscientious American objection to past proposals," Mr. Cox declared in making clear his position on the League of Nations issue. He described the position of the present Washington administration on foreign affairs as one of "isolation and reactionaryism."

"The administration is overlooking the fundamentals of the whole economic situation, and by doing so has fixed the political issue of American isolation," the former governor declared. "Under this policy we can not maintain our self respect or a place in the trade world and this question must be settled before we can take a single constructive step." He expressed opinion that a revolt against the Washington administration is under way.

Blames U. S. For Plight of Europe

The present plight of Europe was laid by Mr. Cox at the door of the United States. He also characterized the difficulties of farmers as the fruits of isolation.

"There is neither sense nor morality in subjecting the growers of our food supplies to the continuing depression. Two extremes are upon him, low prices on what he sells, and high prices on his every purchase," he declared.

"America, through our government, is responsible for the Ruhr invasion and the terrible cost which it has imposed, because we could have prevented it," he said, insisting that the reparations questions could have been settled in 1922, when a deadlock prevailed, had the United States had a working representative on the Reparations Commission, instead of an observer.

Shortcomings of Administration

Among alleged shortcomings of the National Administration cited by Mr. Cox, were: Stand on soldier bonus "thrown into the arena and tossed about for the purpose of gaining the soldier vote;" the making of "great ado" about income tax reduction, "while hundreds of millions of dollars are to be indirectly taken in the aggregate from every family in America under a tariff that robs the mass to enrich the class;" introduction and exploitation of bills intended "to compose the rural clamor," and the senate debate on "the thrilling question" of whether the Russian soviets are about to overthrow the government at Washington. He also charged that "two men sit in the president's cabinet who participated in a fraud and deception upon the American people in order to achieve political preferment."

It was announced that more than 800 attended the banquet.

Claude Meeker, Columbus, former secretary to Governor James E. Campbell, sounded the keynote carried thru the addresses of the evening, when taking his position as toastmaster, he declared that "from hilltop to hilltop comes the signal that militant Democracy is on the march" and that victory is in sight in 1924.

Campbell Praises Jackson

Former Governor Campbell delivered the principal eulogy to Jacksonian accomplishments, extolling him as one of the great men of his party and holding him up as an example for present day Democrats. Judson Harmon, the third former chief executive on the program, spoke briefly, taking Jackson as his theme also. All of them received prolonged ovations, as did Governor Donahey when he announced his candidacy, while the mentioning of the name of Woodrow Wilson was the signal for a rising ovation.

A telegram of regret from Mr. Wilson at his inability to be present was read to the gathering. It says:

Wilson's Message

"It is a matter of deep regret that circumstances surrounding my convalescence render it impossible for me to attend the great Jackson Day banquet which you are planning. But with such speakers as are promised you, my absence can make very little difference in the success of the occasion. Allow me to send my most earnest greetings and to express deep satisfaction in being associated with the Democrats of Ohio in the great work of redeeming the country which is immediately at hand.

(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson."

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of Chicago, represented women on the program, declaring that she believed that "for the first time since Cleveland carried Illinois, we're going to get a victory in 1924." After returning from abroad, she declared, she was convinced that "it is going to take the Democratic party to solve the question in Europe."

been the real cause for Sheriff George Galligan appealing for the troops. The theory, although lacking confirmation, was strengthened by the departure from here of Company I of Salem, for Herrin, shortly before midnight. Two companies, K of Cairo, and L of Mount Vernon, remain in Marion, with headquarters at the county court house.

Adjutant General Carlos E. Black, who ordered the soldiers into Williamson county, arrived from Springfield at three a. m.

Sheriff Has The Mumps

Sheriff Galligan is confined to his bed with an attack of mumps. It was from there yesterday that he telegraphed General Black that the situation was beyond his control and that he feared rioting might start at any time.

The sheriff's action followed immediately the acquittal yesterday of S. Glenn Young, former prohibition officer, and recently deputized for work in raids, on a charge of assault in a court room in which a large group of his friends had mounted two machine guns for "self protection."

Within the last three weeks Federal agents, aided by hundreds of deputized citizens, many of whom admitted membership in the Klan, have, without the official knowledge of Sheriff Galligan, carried out three series of raids in which 212 persons have been arrested for alleged violations of the prohibition law. The last raid was Monday night, when twenty men were arrested.

"I don't want this county to be accused again of failing to send for the soldiers in time," said Sheriff Galligan in discussing the situation.

That charge was made after more than a score of strip pit mine workers were massacred at Herrin two years ago.

Many Guns Are Bought

Hardware men in Herrin report that the present crisis has brought the sale of more guns and ammunition than ever before.

The Klan recently gave a demonstration, hooded and gowned, in which the declaration was made that Williamson county was to be cleaned up. On Saturday night, December 22, the first spectacular raid was made and 136 persons were arrested for bootlegging. Three men were shot. The Ku Klux Klan then claimed to have raised $3,000 to conduct that raid alone, which statement was followed by one of Gus Simons special Federal officer from Philadelphia, that both Klansmen and Knights of Columbus participated.

The next day the road houses and other places re-opened, precipitating another raid January 5, in which more than fifty were arrested, and some previously under custody re-taken. On Monday of this week, the raids were resumed.

Shooting Star Almost Struck N. & W. Employe

Of course you have heard about shooting stars for many years. Perhaps you like many other skeptically inclined persons thought it a myth.

So it was with George Bedford, well known N. & W. employee, who lives at 617 Ninth street until this morning, when a shooting star almost hit him as he was walking towards the N. & W. storehouse, East Portsmouth. When he attempted to pick up the star he found it red hot, almost at a white heat and had to wait until it cooled off before he could pick up his valued astronomical trophy.

It is a perfect shaped star and to convince all doubting Thomases he is carrying it around with him and proudly exhibited it in the Times office today.

"I have heard much about shooting stars for years, but did not place much credence in their existence, but now I know they are a reality and if the one I have in my possession had hit me this morning I no doubt would have been forcibly reminded that such a thing actually existed," Mr. Bedford said.

He contemplates turning it over to the Smithsonian Institute after being displayed in a local jewelry window.

Smith Grimes Was 89 Today

Smith Grimes, one of the city's most highly regarded citizens celebrated his eighty ninth birthday anniversary at his home on Third street Wednesday. He spent most of his life in Adams county, where he was born and reared, but has been a resident of this city for 13 years. He still is hale and hearty and every day last week when the river was on a rampage was able to visit the river front and learn just what the obstreperous Ohio was doing.

Offer

Henry Ford, is as follows:

New Process On Fertilizer

"Under the plan proposed ample provision would be made for the supply of electric energy for the manufacture of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals, such energy to be supplied at actual cost to the licensee."

Although the offer itself does not disclose the fact, it is known that certain manufacturers not now connected with the fertilizer business, are prepared to disclose new processes, which it is said, when used in connection with hydro-electric power, promise revolutionary developments in the production of fertilizer and tremendous reductions in price.

Mr. Hull declared the new offer, which proposed to return approximately $100,000,000 to the government over a period of fifty years, leaving the whole property subject to recapture by the government, while providing also power for manufacture of fertilizer "serves to show the inadequacy of Henry Ford's offer," and said that "from almost any standpoint the Ford offer must now appear of doubtful possible benefit."

"This plan," said Mr. Hull, "would enable the government to realize an adequate return on its investment and at the same time retain nitrate plant No. 2 as a standby for war. The government would also retain other very valuable properties which under the Ford offer would be deeded to the Ford corporation for $5,000,000, although it now appears that the government can get $4,500,000 for the Sheffield steam plant alone. The government already has sold the Gorgas plant for about $3,500,000 so it can therefore realize $8,000,000 for only two units of the Muscle Shoals properties."

Would Not Debar Ford

"Yet, now Mr. Ford would pay only about $1,500,000 as suggested by some, for the entire Muscle Shoals plants which cost originally $107,000,000.

"This offer enables the government to recover and secure a return on $17,000,000 invested in the power dam during the war, on which Mr. Ford would pay no return, and the $17,000,000 would become a total loss.

"It should be pointed out that there is nothing in this plan which would debar Mr. Ford from carrying out his oft-expressed desire of doing something for the farmers by the manufacture of fertilizers at Muscle Shoals. Nitrate plants are still available to him with the necessary power on whatever terms congress may decide. I want the government to encourage him or any one else. But if Mr. Ford is to engage in the fertilizer business employing the resources of the government, it should be under the same guarantees that would be expected or asked of any other man."

lieutenants in charge on their work. It was well after one a. m. before the new director decided to call it a day. He had put in more than 18 hours in his first full day on the job.

Clean Up The Red Light District

The clean-up action in the Red Light District was quick and sure after General Butler had called two of the lieutenants in charge to his office and warned them that they would have to "get busy" or be "busted."

Twenty-seven cider saloons were closed, their doors padlocked, and the alleged proprietors of two arrested. In many of the places there were neither proprietors, bartenders nor customers, they apparently having anticipated the raids and sought cover elsewhere. Some of the saloons were selling soft drinks only.

After this work was completed, Lieutenant Holton armed himself with an axe and again led his men forth. This time disorderly houses were the objects of attention and every one known to be operating was visited and ordered to close. Wherever gambling paraphernalia was found, Lieutenant Holton brought his axe into play and smashed it to kindling wood. In only two places was it necessary to use the axe to gain entrance. Swinging the axe vigorously, Lieutenant Holton quickly battered in the doors and led his men inside. Seven men and three women, assembled around gaming tables on the second floor of one of the places were arrested. Money on the table was confiscated and the paraphernalia demolished. Forty men and women in the restaurant below were searched but nothing was found.

The disorderly house raids netted only ten prisoners. This was due, Holton said, to the fact that most of the proprietors had heeded General Butler's warning and had either set their places in order or closed them and left the city.

Cabarets and music and dance halls will be the next to feel the effect of General Butler's crusade.

Cleveland Clean-up Gets Under Way

CLEVELAND, Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—The crusade to rid Cleveland of gambling, ordered today by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, was started tonight with the arrest of seven men following a raid on a coffee house. In an order of Police Chief Jacob Graul today to "clean up", Director Barry said he knows where the gambling dens are and that he would "get them myself if the order fails."

Peter Eloff, proprietor of the coffee shop, was charged with suffering gambling, and six men who were playing cards were locked up on gambling charges.

Chief Graul will be given a free hand, as will every department head, City Manager William R. Hopkins announced tonight.

South Point Given A Surprise Package

The South Webster High School basketball team added another victory to its list when they took the fast South Point High School squad into camp to the tune of 16 to 6. The South Point five expected an easy victory, but they were not aware that the South Webster quintet had come to them undefeated, with a record of eight victories. The game had progressed only a few minutes when the South Point lads knew they were up against the fastest team they have met as South Webster took an early lead and was never halted. S. Hall was the main cog in the South Webster machine, making five baskets and one foul, besides playing a good offensive game. The lineup:

South Webster		South Point
M. Hall	RF	Pemberton
S. Hall	LF	Kouns
Kniggle	RG	Campbell
Baer	RG	Campbell
Hanes	LG	McClure

Third Offense; Held To Grand Jury

Pleading guilty of a third offense of violation of the dry laws by possession of liquor unlawfully, William Golden, alias "Lowland Red," negro, was held to the grand jury under $1000 bond by Judge Sprague in Municipal court Wednesday. Unable to furnish bond Golden was committed to the county jail.

Golden was nabbed by state dry officers in a raid on a house in the North End Monday night and at the time of his arrest the defendant had 18 half pint bottles of "hootch" in his possession, the arresting officers testified.

Martha Bell, the defendant's "lady friend" who was also taken into custody for investigation in connection with Golden's liquor activities, was dismissed when no charges were pressed against her.

Woman's Heroism Helps Save Six

CLEVELAND, O., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Heroism of Mrs. M. E. Holley, 53, employed as housekeeper, and Lakewood firemen early today resulted in the rescue of six persons who were carried down a ladder from the second floor of a Lakewood home, while fire raged in the basement and first floor.

Mrs. Holley, employed in the home of five brothers and sisters, was awakened by the smoke. She went to the rooms and beds of each one, shook them and helped them dress. Then she collapsed on a bed.

The six occupants of the house, trapped on the second floor, were lapsing into unconsciousness when firemen, unable to enter the blazing house, rescued them by raising a ladder to a second story window.

Father's Evidence Convicts Son

JERSEY CITY, N. J., January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Arnold Anderson, 26 years old, has been convicted of murder because his father, Alvin Anderson, a Brooklyn tailor, who is deeply religious, could not lie on the witness stand.

"I asked Arnold if he was guilty," the father testified in a low voice. "He looked me right in the eye and said, 'I killed him.'"

Young Anderson was accused of killing Harry C. Moore, a real estate dealer, in a hold up. The son testified he had told his father he was the murderer in order to shield a partner in the holdup who fired the shot. The jury, in its verdict last night, recommended mercy and Anderson will be sentenced to life imprisonment.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson Back In America

NEW YORK, January 9.—(By the Associated Press)—William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, whose ambition to dry up the earth cost him an eye in England, arrived today on the George Washington after eight months crusading in foreign lands, declaring his remaining eye was failing and his hearing was going bad. "but I'm not going to die until the whole world's dry," he said.

Johnson, after years of strenuous campaigning for prohibition in this country, lost his left eye as the result of an assault by students in England, whom he was exhorting to join his cause. Since last June, he said, he had covered 7,000 miles and made 107 speeches in a successful effort to increase the aridity of such countries as India, Arabia, Zanzibar and Egypt.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflammed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in additon to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system, after colds, or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. —Advertisement

SPECULATORS ENCOUNTER PROFIT TAKING AND BEAR SELLING

Bond Buying Covers Entire List

NEW YORK, N. Y., January 9.—The flow of re-investment bonds into the bond market reached the highest point of the New Year today with the buying covering practically the entire list. The movement of high grade investment and secondary railroad mortgages was particularly impressive, purchases of the latter being influenced chiefly by the court decision upholding the so-called recapture clause of the transportation act. Moderate strength was displayed by a large number of industrials and public utilities company bonds. Oil company liens, despite the weakness of the oil stocks, made a good showing in the early trading.

The Liberty bonds also recovered a large volume of buying and numerous French and continental bonds were pushed up in fairly active trading.

Stock Market Presents Irregular Appearance

NEW YORK, N. Y., January 9.—Further switching of speculative interest from the industrials to the railroad shares featured today's active session of the market. The entire list swung upward in the early dealings on the announcement that the Washington administration favored the tax reduction bill over the soldier bill, many issues touching the highest levels recorded in years. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 1,300,000 shares.

NEW YORK, N. Y., January 9.—Speculators for the advance resumed their operations at the opening of today's stock market, but they encountered profit taking and bear selling which gave the general list an irregular appearance. A moderate demand was noted for the low priced rails, rubbers and equipments, but initial changes were limited as a rule to small fractions.

Quite a number of shares which were conspicuous in yesterday's upward movement were again in demand in the early dealings, notably Remington Typewriter, which rose three points, and U. S. Rubber, 1½. Some of the eastern and southern railroad shares were bought heavily, New Haven rising 1, and Chesapeake and Ohio 2. Other strong spots included Corn Products, Fleischman, Royal Dutch, Iron Products and National Department Stores. Weakness, however, cropped out in some of the other active issues, Davison Chemical, the Pan-American issues, Producers and Refiners losing 1 to 1¾. Foreign exchange rates opened higher.

Further accumulation of the low priced rails with the Wabash issues assuming the leadership of that group featured the morning market. Erie Railroad shares which were the outstanding strong spot yesterday, fell back on profit taking. Strength of some of the seasoned dividend paying public utilities furnished additional evidence of an extensive use of January dividend and interest payments in the purchase of high grade securities. Oils were fairly well sustained despite the persistent selling of Pan-American issues, which have been adversely affected by the Mexican news and unfavorable dividend rumors. Marland moved up a point. Remington Typewriter advanced five points, Computing, Tabulating and Recording 3⅜, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 2⅝. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

Profit Taking On Curb Market

NEW YORK, N. Y., January 9.—Market operations on the curb market today included profit-taking in a number of issues that had been established at high levels, but this selling was offset by quiet accumulation, the supply being easily absorbed. There was vigorous buying in a number of specialties in the industrial group.

Prairie Oil and Gas attracted most attention in the petroleum group because of its announcement ordering an increase in mid-continent rates ranging from 25 to 40 cents a barrel. This action was without special influence on the trading positions of the Standard Oil stocks.

Some of those shares made brisk advances in the early trading but met a supply and quickly reacted. Prairie Oil moved up about 3 points to 261 but more than lost this gain later. Standard Oil of Nebrasko fluctuated widely first advancing 7 points to 212 and then reacting. Imperial Oil of Canada was strong, gaining 2 points. Ohio Oil moved up over two points followed by a reaction. Independent Oil stocks were generally firm.

Strength was shown in a number of the industrials. Activity in the shipping group and other markets recently was followed by a good demand for Todd Shipbuilding which made a further gain of over two points today to a new high for recent trading.

American Light and Traction moved up four points; New York Telephone had a sharp advance following announcement of operations by a transportation company in the upper part of this city. Dubilier Condenser made a fractional advance in response to yesterday's favorable report. Radio issues made fractional gains. Stutz Motor after a fractional advance, was in moderate supply. Dunhill on a fractional decline reached a new low record.

SOCIETY

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Garfield School held an interesting meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the school. This was the first meeting since the holidays and the members decided to start the new year right by turning out in large numbers at all future meetings.

The program opened by reciting the Lord's Prayer in unison, after which the pupils in the various grades presented a very delightful and enjoyable program. Little Betty Conklin, a kindergarten pupil of Miss Martin Spencer, played a pleasing piano solo, and the 2—A grade pupils of Miss Blanche Heffner sang two songs. Miss Porter's 7—A grade pupils had charge of the remainder of the program, which included a reading entitled "A Bald-headed Man," by Miss Edna Sutton, and a dialogue, "Hasty Opinions," by Edward Erfurth, Maurice Hines, Goldie Mareum and Clyde Brown.

Following the program a short business session was held, during which informal talks were given by the mothers and teachers on the importance of mothers attending the meetings and in seeing for themselves what progress is being made in the school, and also to co-operate with the teachers in getting the best out of the children. The members voted unanimously to accept the invitation extended by Mrs. Albert Marting, a member of the school board, to be her guest some afternoon in the near future.

Mr. S. O. Titus and granddaughter, Miss Helen Titus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Titus, formerly of this city, are here from their home in Dover, New Hampshire for a visit among friends. They are guests at the home of Mrs. J. M. Ricker and daughters, the Misses Ricker of Fifth street.

Mrs. Russell Ketter was hostess to the members of the P. C. Club on Tuesday evening at her home on Gallia street. Needlework formed the diversion of the evening until a late hour, when a dainty ice course was served to the following:

Mrs. Earl Henry, Mrs. Clyde Fisher, Mrs. W. A. Stone, Mrs. Thane Wilson, Mrs. Howard Hansgen, Miss Clara Wiget and Miss Emma Schneider.

Liberty Class of Manly church will serve soup, sandwiches, pie and coffee from 11 until 2 o'clock tomorow noon in the church basement. The general public is cordially invited to patronize these appetizing weekly noonday lunches.

He also touched on the historical life of this noted composer and described each one of the vocal compositions on the afternoon's program.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Manly church met in regular session on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clayton McCoy 1917 Eleventh street, with twenty-seven members and one guest present. Plans were discussed for the regular George Washington supper which will be given this year on Thursday evening, February 21st. At the close of the business session a dainty refreshment course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Weghorst and Mrs. J. W. Jordan.

P.)—The Democratic state convention will be held here May 14, the state central committee decided at a meeting here Tuesday, preceding the Jackson Day banquet last night at which former Governor James M. Cox was the principal speaker. It is expected that the convention will run over until the 15th.

True to predictions, the committee which met in joint session with the state executive committee and chairmen of county committees made no endorsement of candidates. No resolutions proposing endorsements of any sort were presented.

Inability of National Chairman Cordell Hull to attend the gathering took interest from the committee meeting and those not having particular business with the committee spent their time at the Deshler hotel, where Mr. Cox arrived early in the afternoon from his home in Dayton. Chairman Hull had been scheduled to address the committee gathering but wired from Washington that he had been detained there.

Short speeches were made by Miss Bernice Pyke of Cleveland, a member of the national committee and by W. A. Julian, former candidate for United States senator. Miss Pyke told of plans for schools for women voters being conducted throughout the country.

Memorial resolutions on James M. Ross, late leader of Franklin county Democracy, were adopted.

The committee also adopted a resolution proportioning delegates for the state convention. Each county is to be entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor Donahey.

Young and Dawes To Issue Their Own Formal Statements

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—Any statements emanating from Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes and Owen B. Young, unofficial representatives of the United States on the expert commission which is to investigate Germany's situation, will be issued formally by them. This announcement was made today in the following communication signed by General Dawes and Mr. Young:

"The American representatives up to this time have made no statement of any kind to the press. Whatever they have to say now and hereafter will be by formal statement.

Just Private Citizens

"They have been invited by the reparations commission to sit as members of the expert committee which is asked to develop facts and make certain suggestions. The American experts come as private citizens, without instructions and without obligations of making reports except to the reparations commission. They have no pre-conceived plans, simply hoping in the plans developed by others they may be of assistance.

"There is one statement, however, which they have no hesitation in making at this time, and without consultation they assume it represents the sentiment of all the committee, as well as public sentiment everywhere, to-wit:

"That time is an essence of this situation; that the committee is a business committee, concerned with facts and constructive inferences to be drawn from them; that their work should be conducted with all possible expedition and that there should be daily and continuous sessions.

The statement is considered in interested quarters as meaning that the American experts are here for real work; that they purpose to reserve all their time for the business in hand, and that they desire the experts promptly to get down to work and stick to it until it is finished.

Meet Commissioners

Brigadier General Dawes and Mr. Young called at the offices of the reparations commission today and met the members informally.

Some surprise is expressed in French circles over the fact that both General Dawes and Mr. Young as well as their advisors, Professors Kemmerer and Davis, are paying their own expenses, declining to have them borne either by the reparations commission or the American state department.

Neal May Be Candidate

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Jan. 9—That George L. Neal may be induced to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, was indicated by developments here yesterday. Strong forces have been at work in recent weeks bearing pressure on the veteran Cabell leader to take a new whirl at the wheel of political fortune. Those who have been exerting this pressure are actuated not alone by partisan interest and the belief that the honorable George L. would be a candidate worthy of the honor, but by the sincere belief and desire that the next governor should be a Huntingtonian.

EDNA AND MABEL STILL HOLD THEIR PICTURE CONTRACTS

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Jan. 9.—(By The A. P.)—The employment of Edna Purviance and Mabel Normand as motion picture contract players has in no way been affected by their connection with the shooting New Year's night here of Courtland S. Dines, Denver oil operator, it was announced here today by the Charles Chaplin Productions and the Mack Sennett Productions. Both actresses were in Dines' apartment when Horace Greer, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, shot and wounded Dines.

Reports that Edna Purviance's contract was cancelled probably grew out of distortion of information that she would not be cast for the next Charles Chaplin production. She is not cast in this picture because the leading role calls for a slim young girl, Charles Riesner, Chaplin's associate said. Another production is being arranged for her, Riesner said.

20 Dead Thought To Be Still In Ruins

PEKIN, ILL., Jan. 9.—(By the A. P.)—With the recovery of four badly mangled bodies today from the ruins of the starch works of the Corn Products company's light plant, which was destroyed by an explosion last Thursday, the known dead list mounted to 16.

Twenty workemen still are missing and their bodies are believed buried in the debris, which is now being attacked by more than a hundred workers.

OBITUARY

George R. Cutler.

Death this morning at nine o'clock, claimed one of Pike county's well known and respected citizens when the final summons came to George R. Cutler at his home in Jasper. Mr. Cutler, who was 67 years of age, had been ailing for several years with lung trouble. He had been seriously ill about four weeks, his illness keeping him confined to his home and bed about this length of time.

Mr. Cutler was associated in business with his father, S. N. Cutler as S. N. Cutler and Son, a general store business being conducted at Jasper for some years. In 1908 the business was sold to the Dewey interests, the business being purchased from the Cutler heirs. Since the transfer of the business to the Deweys, Mr. Cutler has followed the life of a retired citizen.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Lillian Cutler and the following children: Newell Cutler of Jasper; Mrs. Dow Vulgamore of Riverdale; Miss Nora Cutler at home; Mrs. Lester N. Shy of 1218 North avenue, Portsmouth; Mrs. Lloyd Brown of Jasper; Mrs. Stacy Brown of Toledo, and Harry Cutler at home. The wife was not at home at the time of the final summons as she has been in Toledo, where she is caring for a grandchild.

Mrs. Mabel Willson, Jasper; Mrs. Bert Chestnut, and Misses Grace and Phila Cutler of Columbus, are half-sisters of Mr. Cutler.

Funeral services will be held Friday with burial in Mound cemetery at Piketon.

CIRCLEVILLE GIRLS' FIVE PLAYS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Friday night the P. H. S. girls' quintet will play their first home game of the 1924 season with the Circleville high school five as their opponents. The game will be called at 8 o'clock in the new high school gym. Coach Charlotte Bell of the Red and Blue squad was more than pleased with the showing by the locals at Ashland last night when P. H. S. had the ball most of the time on their end of the floor. Considerable time has been given this week to the shooting of baskets, the one weak point uncovered last week.

The local team is made up mostly of girls who had experience on the indoor court last season and should go through a good season this year. Selby is again at center with Armstrong and Dopps playing the forward positions. Hopkins is a regular at guard with Stewart as the one new player on the team.

Circleville high has a fast team this year which means the locals will have a hard battle on their hands.

On Saturday night the P. H. S. boys meet the Piketon high school boys' five.

Saturday night in the old P. H. S. gym the N. & W. terminals basketball five under the leadership of Pat Shoemaker will play their first game of the season with the N. & W. shop and yards team of Columbus forming the opposition.

Shoemaker and his basket tossers have been practicing for several weeks and now have a quintet ready to meet any of the fives on the N. & W. lines from Norfolk to Columbus and Cincinnati.

The local team will consist of Shoemaker, Gims, Craycraft, Doll, Masoncup, Stevenson, Brown, Hanal and several others who have had experience on high school and college fives.

The game will be started at 7:30 sharp. As an added attraction the N. & W. band of 27 pieces will be hand to furnish music before the game and between halves. The famous "Duke" Whipple will lead the organization.

Activities Of Boys' Terminals Clubs

Both junior and senior divisions of East End boys will meet this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Boys' Department headquarters, Terminals Y. M. C. A. to formulate a Boys' Basket League.

Representatives of all organized or un-organized groups of churches, Sunday Schools, industries, social or athletic clubs of the following districts are invited to be present: Early Town, Manly Church, Mabert Road, Terminals Clubs, Norfolk and Western railway employes, New Boston, Sciotoville and Hilltop sections.

Good fellowship and clean sports and clean living habits will be some of the fruits of the proposed league, its founders aver.

The Triangle Club — Older Boys' Group—held their weekly meeting at the Boys' Department Headquarters, Terminals Y. M. C. A., last night and elected the following officers: President, Teddy Labedz; vice-president, George Massie; secretary, Edward DeAtley; assistant secretary, Walter Doll; treasurer, Paul Brunner.

The officers will assume their duties at the next meeting, Tuesday, January 15th, 6:45 P. M.

Prior to the balloting the candidates for the various offices made one minute extemporaneous speeches, announcing their policies and platforms.

A feature of the evening was a debate on the question "Should capital punishment be abolished?" Edward DeAtley defended the affirmative, while Teddy Labedz made a strong argument for the negative. The judges Everett Wallace, Walter Doll and Ralph Monk, decided in favor of the negative. After a spirited debate, by the house the members decided in favor of the affirmative.

Triangles Basket Ball Team will play Portsmouth College of Business quinttete, Thursday, 7:30 P. M. at Wilhelmette Hall.

The Terminal boys resumed their winning stride and took the glamour off of the North Stars in a good game yesterday afternoon 22 to 9. Captain Maynard was the leading basketeer with five field and three foul goals. Carter and Evans made some spectacular shots for the Starry quintet. Lineup:

AH, SOMETHING ELSE HAS TO BE AGED BEFORE IT REACHES BEST STATE

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—Experiments in laboratories and on the links have shown that golf balls need to be aged for several months to be durable it was said today by the manager of a sporting goods house which turns out most of the golf balls used in America. The annual consumption of the rubber pellets amounts to $24,000,000, worth $18,000,000 at retail.

In order to have the thin cover vulcanized to the right degree for obtaining distance, it must not be made too hard. As a result, when the balls are "green," they are easily cut by the edge of the club head when the golfer tops the ball. The cover with the exact amount of vulcanizing to make it lively, will toughen with a few months ageing and yet it will retain its elasticity to the utmost degree so far as delicate testing machines can show, he said.

During the last few years the manufacturers have been unable to keep up with the demand for golf balls, and the insistent golfer grabs the green ones during the summer, not knowing that if he had purchased his supply during the fall and winter he would not cut up so many the next season, according to the sporting goods seller.

Braves Look Strong

BOSTON, Jan. 9—President Christy Matthewson of the Boston Nationals, here today for the annual meeting of the club, has figured it out that on paper the Braves have a better than .300 batting team for this year. "On paper is what I said," he reiterated. "With Bancroft at short Tierney at second and Cunningham and Stengel in the outfield, we average more than .300 to the man in the lineup which might start for 1924. I am not saying that the team will bat more than .300, but on paper we have that possibility."

Trinity Team Beaten

In the old high school gym last night the Silver Foxes, a Boy Scout five annexed their fourth straight victory by taking a Trinity five into camp 24 to 14.

BUILDING PROSPERITY

NO better barometer of economic and financial conditions as they existed in the United States during the year just closed can be found than in the statement of the Copper and Brass Research Association that $5,922,900,000 was expended in 1923 in the United States in new building construction, an expenditure exceeding by $1,000,000,000 that of the preceding year. Both years were record breakers.

Building booms never just happen. They always follow increased business and cheap money. Likewise building operations boost business and industry. They keep the steel mills, the saw mills and the building trades busy. When building construction stops unemployment begins, money becomes scarce and prosperity is dead. Prosperity is written all over a new building.

It is estimated that the increased building construction experienced in the past three years has practically wiped out the nation's acute housing and building shortage. The building shortage was estimated at $8,084,985,000 in 1921. Since that time new buildings have reduced it to $1,960,935,000.

Improved housing conditions and lower rents may reasonably be expected to result from the expenditure last year of $1,658,420,000 for new houses and apartments. The criticism that we Americans are becoming self-centered and selfish is contradicted by statistics showing $1,165,140,000 spent in 1923 for new school buildings, $400,980,000 spent in the erection of new churches and $450,015,000 spent in new hospitals. To provide a roof for increased industrial and business activities there were new buildings erected last year with an aggregate construction cost of $1,355,755.

There is every indication and promise that 1924 will bring even greater things in building construction in Portsmouth and throughout the country.

CONSECRATED TO SERVICE

DURING the Christmas holidays when the nation's colleges were in recess the quadrennial convention of the student volunteer movement was held in Indianapolis with 7000 young men and women, representing 1000 colleges, in attendance. This convention presented the inspiring picture of 7000 young people filled with youth and faith and imbued with the will to consecrate and sacrifice their lives to missionary work in foreign lands. Here were thousands of young men and women eager to leave the comforts and ease of civilization and home to brave hardships and struggle in heathen lands. There is hope for civilization in such faith and service.

It is easy to say—and it is true—that there is work enough for every one of this number at home here in the United States among its poor, illiterate and foreign elements. But the fact remains that in other lands there are still greater needs; and the challenge appeals to those who seek a career of unbounded possibilities for doing good and helping others. There is strife and darkness in the new world, but none that can be compared with that with which the foreign missions come in constant contact. The goal of the American missionaries has ever been where they are most needed. The 7000 student volunteers who met in Indianapolis represented an infinitesimal part of the young men and women preparing themselves in American educational institutions, not to convert others to the tenents of particular denominations, but to spread those influences which make for peace and fraternal understanding.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Manhattan with all its militant mediocrity, strutting ostentation, comic deals and jitney cults is keenly sympathetic toward many serious things in life. The art galleries library, reading rooms and afternoon concerts are always well patronized.

There are thousands of New Yorkers who pay monthly visits to the Metropolitan Museum of Art—a place no visitor should miss. Here one is transported back to the days of the Crusaders. There is something staggering about the medieval hall and its magnificent pageant.

Serious drama, too, finds the most enthusiastic reception to be found anywhere. And it is not at all unusual to hear a sparkling discussion of opera and literature in the little one-armed lunchrooms of Sixth Avenue at night.

When the weather permits there is most usually a group in Battery Park watching the beauty of the sunset. Just as there is a group against the rail on Brooklyn Bridge to see the city light up. These are mostly clerks, mechanics and small tradesmen.

In the quiet little book-shops on side streets, where the hum of the city is far away, one finds atmosphere fairly reeking with cerebration. Here are people who know little of spectacular revues, French cafes and the fol de rol of gayer haunts.

Visit any of the quaint old spots where history peeps through the march of progress all about and you find New Yorkers thrilling to the long ago. Even when winter snows drift heavily in Central Park there is generally a crowd viewing the beauty of the obelisk.

What the visitor sees about New York is life in its most vivid form—the flash and tinsel. It takes many years to get away from these extermals and see the cultural ferment that is stirring underneath. New York perhaps hasn't the culture of Boston, but there is a side to it that is tremendously earnest and sincere.

Packy Lyman, who was the favorite hackman of stage stars—having driven Mrs. Fiske, Bernhardt, Henrietta Crossman, Lillian Russell and scores of others to and from the theatre—returned to Broadway one night recently from his farm in New Jersey. Packy is past 70 now and was thrifty enough to be able to spend his declining days in peace. The roar of the gasolene age offers no terrors. Packy could see nothing but impertinence among the men who now drive taxies. "Why they don't even bow to their fares!" he observed.

The other day I escaped a holdup in a hotel lobby by about ten minutes. Three young ruffians held a crowd of six at bay with guns and decamped with the contents of a Fifth Avenue jeweler's lobby display case. The elevator operator on duty was the only one who seemed to be in my class so far as bravery goes. At midnight the next night he was still shaking like an aspen leaf and his speech came in jerks. The others said they took it as a joke.

There is a lady in New York who showed remarkable gameness a year ago when she awakened to find a burglar in her room. Instead of screaming she turned on the night lamp and said coolly: "I am unarmed, but you don't frighten me a bit. You are a coward and if you don't put my stuff down I'm going to call for the police." He dropped the loot and, reversing the usual process, fainted.

Delmonico's on Fifth Avenue is now an antique shop. The atmosphere of gayety has been exchanged for the sombreness of antiquity. There was talk for a while of reviving the name with another restaurant on Park Avenue but, like Rector's, Delmonico's will remain only a happy memory.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

He Didn't Worry

"Methusaleh ate what he found on his plate,
And never, as people do now,
Did he not the amount of caloric count—
He ate it because it was chow.
He wasn't disturbed, as at dinner he sat,
Destroying a roast or a pie,
To think it was lacking in granular fat,
Or a couple of vitamines shy.
He cheerfully chewed every piece of food,
Untrobld by worries or fears
Lest his health might be hurt by some fancy dessert
And he lived over nine hundred years!"

The Shadowy Past

Bailiff—That boy was arrested for stealing an umbrella, but the judge let him off with a word of caution.

Spectator—I suppose it recalled to the judge a few traits of the past—part of his youthful career.

No Nerve

"How's your new chauffeur, Jim?"

"Had to fire him; he used to be a motorman."

"Too reckless, eh?"

"Reckless nothing! Why, I couldn't break him of the habit of slowing up at a crossing."

Valuable Assistance

The Officer—A coal driver's assistant, are you? What are the duties of the job?

The Fat Party—I sit in the wagon while the coal is being weighed.

Dumb

First Student—"Is that the belle of the school?"

Second Student—"Yeah, in a gymnasium sense."

Hurry Away

"I want to see the court missionary," said a woman at court.

"He is sitting over there," replied the magistrate.

Woman (surprised)—Oh, I didn't know he was a man. I wanted to show some bruises caused by my neighbor. Good morning.

And she hurried from the court.

A Miscue

Tom—I would have brought you a box of candy this evening, Gladys, only you're training for a basketball game, you know, and—

Gladys (sharply)—I am not doing anything of the sort.

Tom (turning pale)—Then I've got my girls mixed.

Hardly

Teacher—What can you say of the Venus de Milo?

Pupil—She couldn't have given anybody a handout.

The Martin

If President Coolidge does git th' presidential nomination, he ought t' git th' silent vote. We've got t' be prepared fer th' worst t' really appreciate th' best.

AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING — BY BRIGGS

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

RESOLUTION

BY BERTON BRALEY

Time was I said, "I firmly vow
I will not throw my time away
In playing auction bridge!" But now
I play.

I FELL at last for bridge, but I
Vociferate with leather lung,
"I never do intend to try
Mah Jung!"

YOU'LL not be draggin' me around
To play Mah Jung. My will is strong.
(You say this is the proper sound
—"Mah Jong?")

ALL right, pronounce it as you may,
You won't bamboozle me along,
I absolutely will not play
Mah Jong.

YOU waste your wind; your words I spurn,
You tempt me not at all, I vow
I swear I quite decline to learn
Pung Chow.

CARDS cost me fifty cents a pack,
Mah Jong costs fifty bucks a set,
That's altogether too much jack,
You bet.

POOL, bowling, poker—say
I play them muchly, right niong,
They are enough—I will not play
Mah Jong.

AT every game I've ever struck,
I'm almost always badly stung,
And so I very wisely duck
Mah Jung!

HARDEN OFFICIALS TAKE CHARGE; MAYOR WARNS NOISY MOTORISTS

Dr. F. G. Wachtendorf was inducted into the office of mayor of Harden, succeeding Walter V. Scott, Monday night, when the newly elected council members took their seats.

Stiff penalties are provided for violations and the mayor declares that a vigorous effort will be made to enforce the ordinance when it becomes effective.

Dr. A. Gardner succeeded himself as village clerk and Oliver Brubaker succeeded himself as village treasurer. The new councilmen sworn in were: C. O. Foster, William Carter, L. R. South, Albert Burling, C. E. Thomas and John Newman.

Twenty-Four Years Ago

Julian Morford, of Crone postoffice, and Oscar Mershon, of the West Side, enlisted at the local recruiting station for army service.

It was a mighty cold night and Dentist Howard Williamson lit a small oil stove and set it under his bed to keep him warm. It worked like a charm for a time, but it was too good to last and the stove exploded with a terrific noise, partially wrecking the bed and the bed clothing was set on fire. He escaped unhurt
